Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Other Markings

- "Holek" is marked on the left side of the barrel. The Holek family is well known for their design and production of firearms in the former Czechoslovakia. This marking is representative of Zbrane Holek (ZH), whose nephew is part owner of Alfa Proj.
- "Bohemia" may be marked on the side plate. Alfa Proj began producing firearms during the time when the former Czechoslovakia was split into two independent countries and the new names of these countries were yet to be officially determined. During initial production, the company believed that "Bohemia" was going to become the official name of the country where the plant was located so this name was placed on the firearms. Months after production, the country officially became the "Czech Republic".
- "Bohemia" is now replaced by "Czech Rep." on any new production runs by Alfa Proj.

Notes

Make

- "ALLEN & THURBER" or "ALLEN, THURBER & COMPANY" is marked on the firearm.
- "ALLEN, THURBER & COMPANY" was marked on firearms manufactured from 1854 to 1856.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Model	- this is any one of several pepperbox-type pistols built by Allen & Thurber based on Ethan Allen's 1837 patent for a double-action trigger mechanism. Allen & Thurber subsequently began producing 1845 Pepperboxes, with a simplified trigger mechanism, and there is no easy way (short of taking the pistol apart) to tell these variations from one another. The presence of an "1837" date, however, is not definitive proof that the example is an 1837 Pepperbox. Allen & Thurber continued using frames stamped "1837" after they started producing the 1845 Pepperbox. 1845 Pepperbox pistols will have a mainspring-tightening screw located high or midway in the frontstrap, while 1837 Pepperboxes are seen with either NO mainspring-tightening screws (mainspring mounted on an internal clip), or with a mainspring-tightening screw mounted at a low position in the frontstrap. - these pepperboxes were built in a wide variety of styles, and can be seen with exposed or internal hammers, ring or curved triggers, and exposed or shielded nipples. Likewise, the markings on these pistols can vary drastically in size, content, and location. Most often, these are marked "Allen's Patent" and "Allen & Thurber" on the hammer and/or in the barrel flutes, along with either "Grafton, Mass." or "Norwich, CT". Worcester, Massachusetts-marked pepperboxes were all of the 1845 type. - walnut grips (most often with a silver oval inlay) on a bag-shaped frame, plain or engraved frame, ring or conventional trigger, and either exposed nipples or a circular nipple shield that exposes only the nipple under the hammer.
Action	- "pepperbox"-type, with six barrels joined in a rotating cluster.
Serial Number	- these pistols may bear numbers, but these are believed to be "batch" numbers; ie. like-numbered pistols were all sent to one distributor.
Barrel	- barrel lengths for these pepperbox pistols have been measured between 2 3/4"/69mm and 6"/152mm, depending on the frame size and caliber.
Calibre	- calibers for 1837 Pepperboxes have been noted in 28, 31, and 36 Percussion, depending on frame size. Minimums and maximums for each bore are entered here.

Notes

Make

- "ALLEN & THURBER" or "ALLEN, THURBER & COMPANY" is marked on the firearm.
- "ALLEN, THURBER & COMPANY" was marked on firearms manufactured from 1854 to 1856.

Model

- this is any one of several pepperbox-type pistols built by Allen & Thurber based on Ethan Allen's 1845 patent for an improved double-action trigger mechanism. Allen & Thurber earlier produced 1837 Pepperboxes, with a more complex trigger mechanism, and there is no easy way (short of taking the pistol apart) to tell these variations from one another. Some 1845 Pepperboxes are actually stamped "1837", however, this because Allen & Thurber continued using frames stamped "1837" when they started producing the 1845 Pepperbox. 1845 Pepperbox pistols will have a mainspring-tightening screw located high or midway in the frontstrap, while 1837 Pepperboxes are seen with either NO mainspring-tightening screws (mainspring mounted on an internal clip), or with a mainspring-tightening screw mounted at a low position in the frontstrap.
- these pepperboxes were built in a wide variety of styles, and can be seen with exposed (sometimes with spur) or internal hammers, ring or curved triggers, and exposed or shielded nipples. Likewise, the markings on these pistols can vary drastically in size, content, and location. Most often, these are marked "Allen's Patent" and "Allen & Thurber" on the hammer and/or in the barrel flutes, along with "Worcester, Mass." Pistols marked either "Grafton, Mass." or "Norwich, CT", are definitely NOT 1845 Pepperboxes.
- walnut grips (often with a silver oval inlay) on a bag-shaped frame, plain or engraved frame, ring or conventional trigger, and either exposed nipples or a circular nipple shield that exposes only the nipple under the hammer.

Action

- "pepperbox"-type, with five or six barrels joined in a rotating cluster.

Serial Number

- these pistols may bear numbers, but these are believed to be "batch" numbers; ie. like-numbered pistols were all sent to one distributor.

Barrel

- barrel lengths in this model have been measured between 2 1/2"/63mm and 6"/152mm, depending on the frame size.

Calibre

- these pepperbox pistols have been noted in 25, 28, 31, and 36 Percussion, depending on the frame size.

Notes

Make

- "ALLEN & THURBER" or "ALLEN, THURBER & COMPANY" is marked on the firearm.
- "ALLEN, THURBER & COMPANY" was marked on firearms manufactured from 1854 to 1856.

Model

- this is a generic record for any one of several pepperbox type pistols built by Allen & Thurber based on Ethan Allen's 1837 and 1845 patents for a double action trigger mechanism. 1845 Pepperbox pistols will have a mainspring tightening screw located high or midway in the frontstrap, while 1837 Pepperboxes are seen with either no mainspring tightening screws (mainspring mounted on an internal clip), or with a mainspring tightening screw mounted at a low position in the frontstrap.
- these pepperboxes were built in a wide variety of styles, and can be seen with exposed (sometimes with spur) or internal hammers, ring or curved triggers, and exposed or shielded nipples. Likewise, the markings on these pistols can vary drastically in size, content, and location. Most often, these are marked "Allen's Patent" and "Allen & Thurber" on the hammer and/or in the barrel flutes, along with "Worcester, Mass."
- pistols marked either "Grafton, Mass." or "Norwich, CT", are definitely not 1845 Pepperboxes.
- features include:
- walnut grips (often with a silver oval inlay), plain or engraved receiver/frame, ring or conventional trigger, and either exposed nipples or a circular nipple shield that exposes only the nipple under the hammer.

Action

- "pepperbox"-type, with five or six barrels joined in a rotating cluster.

Serial Number

- these pistols may bear numbers, but these are believed to be "batch" numbers; ie. "like" numbered pistols were all sent to one distributor.

Notes

Make

- "ALLEN & THURBER" or "ALLEN, THURBER & COMPANY" is marked on the firearm.
- "ALLEN, THURBER & COMPANY" was marked on firearms manufactured from 1854 to 1856.

Model

- this was a double action single-shot pistol with a spurless bar hammer, based on Ethan Allen's double action patent of 1837 and patent of 1845.
- this pistol was made in two general frame styles, one with a sharply angled bag grip, and one with a more typical gently angled bag grip
- features include: walnut grips (most often with silver oval inlays), engraved receiver/frame, half-octagon barrels, and no sights.
- these pistols were built by Allen & Thurber at all three of their factory locations (Grafton, Mass., Norwich, Conn., and Worcester, Mass.), and are usually seen with "Allen & Thurber", "Allen's Patent", or the patent date of "1845" somewhere on the receiver/frame or on the side of the bar hammer..

Action

- muzzle loader.
- double action trigger mechanism.

Serial Number

- serial number is marked on the receiver/frame.

Notes

Make	- "ALLEN & WHEELOCK" may be marked on the barrel.
Model	- this is a single-shot "derringer"-type pistol made in three basic variations during the early 1860s - full- or half-octagon barrel that pivots to the right to load/unload, spur trigger (no trigger-guard), walnut grips, and blued or nickeled finish. - these pistols have been seen in three styles; two with an "overlap", that extends off the top of the frame and joins into the top of the pivoting barrel to aid in lock-up, and one without.
Action	- pivoting-barrel single-shot.
Serial Number	- these pistols may bear numbers, but these are believed to be "batch" numbers; ie. like-numbered pistols were all sent to one distributor.
Barrel	- these pistols are normally seen with a 4"/101mm or 5"/127mm barrel.
Other Markings	- may be marked on the barrel: "ALLEN & WHEELOCK/WORCESTER, MASS.".

Notes

Make

- "ALLEN & WHEELOCK" may be marked on the barrel.

Model

- this firearm is a 44 percussion ignition system, revolving rifle based on Allen & Wheelock's design for the Centre Hammer Army revolver.
- single-action revolving rifle, with the rammer actuated by the trigger guard.
- straight-grip walnut stock and forearm.
- colour case-hardened hammer and trigger, and a blued barrel.
- these rifles can be recognized by the shape of the rear of the cylinder, which has percussion-cap nipples.
- the trigger guard acts as a rammer.
- similar rifles were made by Allen & Wheelock in 44 Lip-Fire calibre.

Serial Number

- total quantity manufactured is estimated at less than 100; examined specimens are serial-numbered.

Barrel

- these rifles have been seen with barrels up to 28"/762mm long.

Calibre

- the cartridge case of the ammunition for this firearm is a straight cylinder with a projection or lip containing fulminate of mercury for a priming compound. In essence this is a rim-fire cartridge with only 20% of a full rim. This ammunition was manufactured between 1860 and approximately 1872.

Notes

Make

- "ALLEN & WHEELOCK" may be marked on the barrel.

Model

- this is a generic record to encompass the wide variety of models and sub models that vary only slightly from each other based on the 1837 patent design and will be marked "ALLEN & WHEELOCK" with the Worchester, Mass. address.
- these pepperboxes were built in a wide variety of styles.
- features include: double-action trigger mechanism, ring type triggers or a conventional trigger inside a loop trigger guard, bar hammer located on top of the receiver/frame and barrels or concealed hammer, exposed or shielded nipples, walnut grips (often with a silver oval inlay) on a bag-shaped frame and plain or engraved finishes.
- the markings on these pistols can vary drastically in size, content, and location. Most often, these are marked "Allen's Patent" and "Allen & Wheelock" on the hammer and/or in the barrel flutes, along with "Worcester, Mass."
- pistols marked either "Grafton, Mass." or "Norwich, CT", are definitely NOT Allen & Wheelock Pepperboxes.

Manufacturer

- "ALLEN & WHEELOCK" may be marked on the barrel.

Action

- "pepperbox"-type, with four, five, or six barrels joined in a rotating cluster.
- multiple barrels that revolve during double action firing.

Serial Number

- these pistols may bear numbers, but these are believed to be "batch" numbers; ie. like-numbered pistols were all sent to one distributor.

Shots

- shots are determined by the number of barrels.

Remarks

- this entry is used for those pepper box hanguns marked "Allen & Wheelock" only.
- other entries exist that cover pepperbox hanguns with Allen's other partner's names and addresses.

Notes

Make

- "ALLEN & WHEELOCK" is marked on top of the barrel.

Model

- model is not marked on the firearm.
- this was a double action single-shot pistol with a spur less bar hammer, based on Ethan Allen's double action patent of 1837 and patent of 1845.
- features include: walnut bag grips (most often with silver oval inlays), engraved receiver/frame, half-octagon barrels, and no sights.
- these pistols are usually seen with "Allen & Wheelock", "Allen's Patent", or the patent date of "1845" somewhere on the receiver/frame or on the side of the bar hammer..

Model

- these revolvers were built by Ethan Allen during a period when his company was known as both "Allen & Wheelock" and "Ethan Allen & Co." (circa 1859 to 1862); examples may be seen bearing either of these company names.
- these revolvers were made in three basic variations, with the primary differences being in the length of the cylinder, the overall shape and angle of the SAA-style grip, and the contour of the frame.
- the 32 calibre models were introduced in 1859. Identification of the three models is based on frame shape differences.
- all examples will have a side hammer mounted on the right side, an octagonal barrel, a spur trigger (no trigger-guard), and most will also show a patent date of July 3, 1860.
- features include:
- iron or brass frame.
- octagonal barrels.
- walnut grips.
- cylinder may have roll engravings.
- other identifying features are the cylinder pin configurations.
- third model variants will have a release catch for the cylinder pin mounted below the pin extending from the receiver.
- hammer is mounted on right side of firearm.
- firing pin is fixed on hammer.
- spur trigger
- single action only.
- Allen & Wheelock-produced revolvers will be marked on left side of barrel "ALLEN & WHEELOCK. WORCESTER. MS. U.S." and "ALLEN'S PATS. SEPT. 7 NOV. 9. 1858".

Serial Number

- stamped on side of receiver beneath left grip panel.

Barrel

Notes

Make	- "ALLEN & WHEELOCK" may be marked on the barrel.
Model	- this is an unusual breech-loading percussion rifle, with walnut stock and forearm, crescent buttplate, and a hammer mounted on the right side of the action. - this rifle was loaded by rotating a large square-lugged "tap" or "faucet"-type plug at the rear of the chamber, which exposed the chamber and bore. A wadded ball could be dropped into the chamber throat, followed by a charge of powder. After the tap was turned back to the closed position, a cap could be placed on the nipple to fire the rifle.
Action	- percussion single-shot, loaded through a rotating "tap" at the right rear of the barrel.
Serial Number	- less than 500 of these rifles are believed to have been made.
Barrel	- no barrel length given in reference; likely to be no longer than 28"/711mm.

Notes

Make

- "ALLEN & WHEELOCK" may be marked on the barrel.

Model

- model designation is not marked on the firearm.
- "ALLEN & WHEELOCK WORCHESTER, MASS. U.S." and "ALLEN'S PATENTS SEPT. 7, NOV. 9, 1858, JULY 3, 1860" and/or "ALLEN & WHEELOCK. WORCHESTER, MS. U.S." and "ALLEN'S PAT'S SEPT. 7, NOV. 9, 1858, JULY 3, 1860" have been observed marked on the barrel.
- manufactured in the early 1860s.
- this model was made in 32 Lip-Fire only. Do not confuse this model with percussion to cartridge conversions.

Serial Number

- no representative sample serial number from observed specimen is available - suspect they may have been numbered from 1 to 200.

Calibre

- The cartridge case of the ammunition for this firearm is a straight cylinder with a projection or lip containing fulminate of mercury for a priming compound. In essence this is a rim-fire cartridge with only 20% of a full rim. This ammunition was manufactured between 1860 and approximately 1872.

Notes

Make

- "E. ALLEN & CO." or "ETHAN ALLEN & CO." may be marked on the firearm.

Model

- these revolvers were built by Ethan Allen during a period when his company was known as "Allen & Wheelock" and by the later version of Ethan Allen when the name changed to "Ethan Allen & Co." in 1865; examples of this firearm may be seen bearing either of these company names.
- these revolvers were made in two basic variations, with eight sub-variations, the primary differences being in the length of the cylinder, the overall shape and angle of grip, and the contour of the frame
- all examples will have a side hammer mounted on the right side, an octagonal barrel, a spur hammer (no trigger-guard), and those manufactured after 1860 will also show a patent date of July 3, 1860.
- Ethan Allen & Co.-produced revolvers will have a barrel marking that reads "Ethan Allen & Co. Worcester, Mass.US / Allen's Patents Sept.7, Nov.9, 1858"

Serial Number

- these pistols may bear numbers, but these are believed to be "batch" numbers; ie. like-numbered pistols were all sent to one distributor.

Barrel

- barrel lengths in these revolvers have been seen between 2 1/4"/57mm and 4"/101mm.

Notes

Make

- "E. ALLEN & CO." or "ETHAN ALLEN & CO." may be marked on the firearm.

Model

- model designation is not marked on the firearm.
- manufactured between 1865 and 1871.
- this model was made in 32 Lip-Fire only. Do not confuse this model with percussion to cartridge conversions.

Calibre

- the cartridge case of the ammunition for this firearm is a straight cylinder with a projection or lip containing fulminate of mercury for a priming compound. In essence this is a rim-fire cartridge with only 20% of a full rim. This ammunition was manufactured between 1860 and approximately 1872.

Other Markings

- markings on the side of the barrel: "ALLEN & WHEELOCK WORCESTER, MASS. U.S." & "ALLEN'S PATENT SEPT. 7, NOV. 9, 1858, JULY 3, 1860".
- some specimens bear the "ETHAN ALLEN & CO" markings.

- Tristan Allevin was a French gunsmith based on Rue Andre-des-Arts, between 1727 and 1747, who specialized in producing made-to-order rifles, pistols, and shotguns for the French aristocracy prior to the French Revolution. His son, Jean Baptiste Claude Allevin followed him into the business, between 1750 and 1796, at 116 Rue de la Verrerie.

Model

- the model is not marked on the firearm; this is a descriptor of the firearm type.
- this is a side by side, flintlock, converted to percussion, originally manufactured by Jean Baptiste Claude Allevin, prior to 1792.
- features include: blued or browned finish; round Damascus barrels; underbarrel ramrod; sling swivels; carved walnut straight-grip stock with checkering; double triggers; and external manually-cocked hammers.

Manufacturer

- "Allevin a Paris" or "Allevin Paris" is usually marked on the firearm.

Notes

Make

- "Allevin a Paris" or "Allevin Paris" is usually marked on the firearm.
- Tristan Allevin was a French gunsmith based on Rue Andre-des-Arts, between 1727 and 1747, who specialized in producing made-to-order rifles, pistols, and shotguns for the French aristocracy prior to the French Revolution. His son, Jean Baptiste Claude Allevin followed him into the business, between 1750 and 1796, at 116 Rue de la Verrerie.

Model

- the model is not marked on the firearm; this is a descriptor of the firearm type.
- this is an early example of a repeating shotgun meant to allow a hunter a faster second shot when using the flintlock ignition system; in a gun of this type, two barrels are arranged around a central pin, each barrel with its own pan and frizzen, so that a second shot can be fired by re-cocking the flint/cock, then twisting the barrels so that the second barrel lines up in firing position.
- features include: blued or browned finish; over/under configuration, with round or octagonal barrels; cleaning/ram rod inlaid into one side of the barrel ribs; walnut forearm plates and straight-grip buttstock, often with intricate carving; a single cock on a lockplate, which can fire either barrel when the barrel cluster is rotated; individual pan and frizzen on each barrel.

Manufacturer

- "Allevin a Paris" or "Allevin Paris" is usually marked on the firearm.
- Tristan Allevin was a French gunsmith based on Rue Andre-des-Arts, between 1727 and 1747, who specialized in producing made-to-order rifles, pistols, and shotguns for the French aristocracy prior to the French Revolution. His son, Jean Baptiste Claude Allevin followed him into the business, between 1750 and 1796, at 116 Rue de la Verrerie.

Action

- this is a firearm with multiple barrels and chambers that "swivel" around a central axis pin (in the manner of a revolver), but which are rotated by hand for each shot.

Barrel

- barrel lengths may vary.

Calibre

- gauges may vary.

- ATK Techsystems (formerly a subsidiary of Boeing) is a US manufacturer of defence equipment and ammunition.

Model

- the model may or may not be marked on the firearm.
- this is a linked-belt-fed 30mm version of the 25mm M242 Chain Gun developed in the late 1980s by the Hughes Tool Company/Hughes Aircraft; these firearms have been made in numerous machine gun and cannon chamberings, and by a variety of manufacturers. The term "chain gun" is derived from these firearms' unique operating cycle, where a loop of chain inside the receiver is driven at high speeds around a circuit. One extended link in that chain engages a slot in the bolt carrier, driving the bolt carrier forwards and rearwards rapidly, producing a rate of fire that depends on the speed of the driving motor. Extracted cases are ejected forward through an ejection tube next to the barrel.
- These firearms are mounted almost exclusively on armoured-vehicles, with remote firing and aiming controls, sometimes as co-axial armament to a larger main gun; they may also be seen in naval mountings, for close-range anti-ship use.
- features include: parkerized/phosphated finish; various styles of muzzle brakes/flash-hiders; a quick-change barrel (depending on the specific installation); and solenoid firing controls.

- the model may or may not be marked on the cannon.
- this is a multi-purpose cannon adopted by the US military in 1986, for use as secondary armament on the AH-64A Apache helicopter gunship (in concert with the primary anti-tank armament of AGM-114 Hellfire missiles).
- this cannon is mounted in a remote-controlled cupola under the nose of the AH-64A, and that cupola can be controlled by way of gunsights mounted into the helmets of the helicopter's pilot and co-pilot; sighting may be accomplished in dark or smoky conditions by using an infrared camera and laser designator co-mounted with the cannon.
- The term "chain gun" is derived from these firearms' unique operating cycle, where a loop of chain inside the receiver is driven at high speeds around a circuit. One extended link in that chain engages a slot in the bolt carrier, driving the bolt carrier forwards and rearwards rapidly, producing a rate of fire that depends on the speed of the driving motor. Notes

Make

- "ALPINE" is marked on the top of the receiver/frame, just behind the rear sight.
- "ALPINE" trade name has been used by Alpine Industries, Firearms Company Limited and Sedgemoor Engineering Limited.

Model

- Introduced in 1962.
- this is a commercial variant of the standard U.S. military M1 Carbine.
- approximately 17,000 M1 Carbines were produced by Alpine from 1962 to 1965.
- "US CARBINE" with "CAL.30 M1" or variation thereof may be marked on the top of the receiver/frame in front of the ejection opening.
- features include: blued finish on the receiver/frame and round barrel; fixed front sight; knob adjustable rear sights; swivel lever safety on the right front of the trigger guard; push button magazine release in front of the safety; fixed wooden pistol grip stock with separate upper handguard; left side mounted front sling swivel; inletted oil holder/ sing attachment at the buttstock; front barrel band which includes a bayonet lug.
- overall length with a 457mm (18") barrel is 903.73mm (35.58") and average weight is 2.49kgs (5.5lbs).

Manufacturer

- "Alpine" should be marked on the top of the receiver/frame just behind the rear sight.
- Alpine stands for Alpine Industries or Alpine Sales.
- Alpine is believed to have been a subsidiary of National Ordnance Incorporated, who also manufactured M1 Carbines.

Action

- gas operated.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Serial Number

- serial number is usually found on the top rear of the receiver/frame or on the side of the receiver/frame at the chamber area.
- serial number may be obscured by the rear sight.
- serial numbers can sometimes be used to indicate a manufacturer or distinct model.

Calibre

- "Cal. 30 M1" may be marked on the top of the receiver/frame, over the breech.

Shots

- detachable box magazine.
Introduced in 1962 with a 15 shot and 30 shot detachable cartridge magazine
- M1 Carbine type magazines were introduced in 1942 as a 15 shot magazine and in 1944 as a 30 shot magazine.

Remarks

- manufacturer names, codes or serial numbers are the surest method of identifying these firearms. Identifying marks are to be taken from the receiver/frame only. Wartime production facilities used many parts manufactured by other carbine producers as well as numerous sub-contractors. Carbines were also often "arsenal refurbished", again making use of components for any number of different sources. Post war manufacturers also used many surplus military parts particularly in the early productions. As these parts ran out they began to use their own modern manufactured components. It is therefore possible to encounter a commercial carbine that will have military markings on some components as well as military manufactured firearms repaired or refurbished with modern commercial parts. Further commercial identification can be done with features such as finish or stock style and material. Specific forms of markings can be used to help identify rough dates of manufacture as well. The proliferation of modern accessory stocks, fitting, sights and other gadgets may also confuse the issue of specific model identification.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Manufacturer	- "AMAC" may be marked on the side of the receiver/frame. - "American Military Arms Corporation" was located in Jacksonville, Arkansas, U.S.A. - "American Military Arms Corporation (AMAC)" purchased "Iver Johnson's Arms, Inc." in March 1987. - "Iver Johnson" was a Division of American Military Arms Corporation. - "American Military Arms Corporation (AMAC)" sold firearms under the trade names of "AMAC" and "Iver Johnson". - "American Military Arms Corporation (AMAC)" ceased operations in 1993.
Action	- gas operated.
Serial Number	- serial number is usually marked on the top rear of the receiver/frame or on the side of the receiver/frame at the chamber area. - serial number may be obscured by the rear sight. - serial numbers can some times be used to indicate a manufacturer or distinct model.
Calibre	- "CAL.30 M1" may be marked on the receiver/frame.
Shots	- detachable box magazine. -Introduced with a 5 shot, 15 shot, and 30 shot detachable cartridge magazine - M1 Carbine type magazines were introduced in 1942 as a 15 shot magazine and in 1944 as a 30 shot magazine.
Remarks	-manufacturer names, codes or serial numbers are the surest method of identifying these firearms. Identifying marks are to be taken from the receiver/frame only. Wartime production facilities used many parts manufactured by other carbine producers as well as numerous sub-contractors. Carbines were also often "arsenal refurbished", again making use of components for any number of different sources. Post war manufacturers also used many surplus military parts particularly in the early productions. As these parts ran out they began to use their own modern manufactured components. It is therefore possible to encounter a commercial carbine that will have military markings on some components as well as military manufactured firearms repaired or refurbished with modern commercial parts. Further commercial identification can be done with features such as finish or stock style and material. Specific forms of markings can be used to help identify rough dates of manufacture as well. The proliferation of modern accessory stocks, fitting, sights and other gadgets may also confuse the issue of specific model identification.

America Remembers starts with a standard shotgun and adds embellishments that includes engraving and gold inlays.
- special adornments include: right barrel is engraved with a stagecoach pulled by a team of six horses and the model designation in 24-karat gold; the left barrel is engraved "I Won't Be Wronged, I Won't Be Insulted" and a facsimile of John Wayne's signature in 24-karat gold; the top of the opening lever features John Wa-yne's Red River "D" logo in 24-karat gold; the blued steel buttplate is etched with the Wayne Enterprises logo featuring a silhouette of John Wayne; the edition number of each individual gun is marked on the underside of the receiver/frame in 24-karat gold and the right side of the buttstock is laser-carved with a portrait of John Wayne.
- features include: boxlock action with external hammers; blued finish; walnut buttstock and forend; double triggers; bead front sight.

Manufacturer

- manufacturer's markings are not found on the firearm. This model is built on a design produced in Russia by Izhevsky Mekhanichesky Zavod (Izhmech). The same basic gun is also marketed in the United States as the European American Armory (EAA) Izh-43K "Bounty Hunter II" and world-wide as either the Baikal or Izhmech model IZH-43K.

Action

- side by side barrel configuration, hinged barrel design

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Serial Number

- serial number is marked on the top tang of the receiver/frame, under the break open/action release lever.
- serial number consists of seven numbers and a letter suffix.
- limited production of 2,500 examples.
- John Wayne Limited Edition number is marked on the underside of the receiver/frame and consists of a two letter "JW" prefix and four numbers.

Canadian Law Comments

- this firearm is normally Non-Restricted unless affected by the following conditions:

1) by combining a barrel from a licensed firearms manufacture that is less than 406mm (16.0") in length and a receiver/frame fitted with a pistol grip only, this firearm may be deemed a "handgun" and therefore "RESTRICTED" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (a) of the Criminal Code of Canada.
- "handgun" means a firearm that is designed, altered or intended to be aimed and fired by the action of one hand, whether or not it has been redesigned or subsequently altered to be aimed and fired by the action of both hands.

2) "a firearm that is designed or adapted to be fired when reduced to a length of less than 660 mm by folding, telescoping or otherwise" and therefore "Restricted" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (c) of the Criminal Code of Canada.

3) by combining a barrel that has been altered to less than 457mm (18.0") in length by a non-licensed firearms manufacturer (cottage industry, individual or gunsmith) regardless of whether the shotgun has a pistol grip or conventional stock, this firearm is "PROHIBITED" and subject to the definition of a "prohibited firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 of the Criminal Code of Canada.
- "prohibited firearm" means a firearm that is adapted from a rifle or shotgun, whether by sawing, cutting or any other alteration, and that, as so adapted,
(i) is less than 660 mm in length, or
(ii) is 660mm or greater in length and has a barrel less than 457 mm in length.

Manufacturer

- America Remembers is a "Historical Society" that markets "commemorative" firearms in small batches. "America Remembers" purchases a limited run of specialized firearms from various manufacturers and embellishes those firearms to create a wide variety of commemorative models. Often these firearms have "customized serial numbers". The manufacturer is assigned both to "America Remembers" and to the actual manufacturer of the receiver/frame of the original firearm when it is possible to trace the origin of the original firearm.
- in this case the manufacturer is listed as "America Remembers/Uberti.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Serial Number	- serial number is marked on the receiver/frame. - observed serial number consisted of a letter "W" prefix and five numbers.
Shots	- tubular magazine mounted under the barrel.
Other Markings	- on left side of the barrel appears John Wayne's signature.

- George H. Fox was the owner of American Arms Company.

Model

- this is a double action top-break revolver with an unusual extraction system that consists of a separate "ring" at the back of the cylinder and double flutes on the cylinder (early versions) or single flutes on the cylinder and an extractor star (later versions).
- features include: fixed sights; nickel or blued finish; and hard synthetic grips with American Arms Co.'s logo of two "A"s and a "C" intertwined.
- American Arms also made similar single-action revolvers (in .38 S&W only) that used a spur trigger.
- DO NOT CONFUSE these revolvers with American Arms Company's "1890 Double Action" revolver, an unusual hammerless revolver with a large round sideplate and several safety mechanisms.

Serial Number

- numbered on butt.

- American Arms Incorporated offered several variations of the Uberti produced reproduction of the Colt model 1873 Single Action Army. While all variations share the same basic features, each individual model was offered with either a different finish or in a different calibre.
- all models feature: single action trigger mechanism; blade front sight with a notch rear or adjustable target style rear sight (Buckhorn Target model); loading gate on the right side of the receiver/frame; ejector rod mounted on the right side of the barrel.
- individual models include;
- Buckhorn; this model was available in calibre 44 MAG with a blued barrel and cylinder, colour case hardened receiver/frame and brass trigger guard/grip frame.
- Buckhorn Target; same as the Buckhorn but has a flat topstrap and is fitted with a ramp front sight and an adjustable rear sight.
- Regulator; this model was available in calibres 357 MAG, 44-40 WIN, 45 COLT or with dual cylinder sets in calibres 44-40 WIN/44 SPL or 45 AUTO/45 COLT. The Regulator had a bright nickel finish or a blued barrel and cylinder, colour case hardened receiver/frame and brass trigger guard/grip frame.
- Regulator Deluxe; this model was available in calibre 45 COLT only. The Regulator Deluxe was the same as the Regulator but had a blued steel trigger guard and grip frame.
- Silverado; this is simply a reproduction of the Colt 1873 Single Action Army with a matte nickel finish, non-fluted cylinder and laminated wood grip.
- Storekeeper; this model had either a standard or bird's head grip, bright nickel finish and a 102mm barrel.

Manufacturer

- Uberti name and/or logo is usually be marked on the underside of the barrel or other inconspicuous location.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Serial Number

- serial number is marked on the underside of the receiver/frame, forward of the trigger guard.
- observed serial number consists of six sequential numbers without a letter prefix or suffix.
- "CAT 1551" marked on the right side of the receiver/frame is not a serial number.
- "1551" is not the serial number; this is the Italian Proof House catalogue number.

Calibre

- the calibre designation is usually marked on the barrel and cylinder.

Other Markings

- in accordance with Italian law, these guns will bear markings applied by the Italian National Proof House. These markings will include a National Firearms Catalogue number assigned to each individual firearm. One known catalogue number is "1551" (this number is assigned to Uberti produced "Buckhorn" single action revolvers in calibre 44 MAG with a 121mm barrel and a six shot cylinder.

Notes

Make

- "American Arms Inc." is usually marked on the barrel.
- American Arms, Incorpoated was an importer and manufacturer located in North Kansas City, Missouri, U.S.A. until 2000.

Model

- American Arms Incorporated offered several variations of the Uberti produced reproduction of the Colt model 1873 Single Action Army. While all variations share the same basic features, each individual model was offered with either a different finish or in a different calibre.
- all models feature: single action trigger mechanism; blade front sight with a notch rear or adjustable target style rear sight (Buckhorn Target model); loading gate on the right side of the receiver/frame; ejector rod mounted on the right side of the barrel.
- individual models include;
- Buckhorn; this model was available in calibre 44 MAG with a blued barrel and cylinder, colour case hardened receiver/frame and brass trigger guard/grip frame.
- Buckhorn Target; same as the Buckhorn but has a flat topstrap and is fitted with a ramp front sight and an adjustable rear sight.
- Regulator; this model was available in calibres 357 MAG, 44-40 WIN, 45 COLT or with dual cylinder sets in calibres 44-40 WIN/44 SPL or 45 AUTO/45 COLT. The Regulator had a bright nickel finish or a blued barrel and cylinder, colour case hardened receiver/frame and brass trigger guard/grip frame.
- Regulator Deluxe; this model was available in calibre 45 COLT only. The Regulator Deluxe was the same as the Regulator but had a blued steel trigger guard and grip frame.
- Silverado; this is simply a reproduction of the Colt 1873 Single Action Army with a matte nickel finish, non-fluted cylinder and laminated wood grip.
- Storekeeper; this model had either a standard or bird's head grip, bright nickel finish and a 102mm barrel.

Manufacturer

- the Uberti name and/or logo will usually be marked on the underside of the barrel or other inconspicuous location.

Serial Number

- marked on the underside of the receiver/frame, forward of the trigger guard.
- the sample examined used sequential numbers.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Calibre - the calibre designation is usually marked on the barrel and cylinder.

Other Markings - in accordance with Italian law, these guns will bear markings applied by the Italian National Proof House. These markings will include a National Firearms Catalogue number assigned to each individual firearm.

Notes

Make	- American Arms, Incorpoated was an importer and manufacturer located in North Kansas City, Missouri, U.S.A. until 2000.
Model	- This is an over/under pattern shotgun imported by American Arms Inc. from Spain; single trigger, ventilated rib barrel, deluxe checkered pistol-grip stock and forearm, ejectors, and chromed, scroll-engraved receiver; some manufactured with interchangeable choke tubes.
Action	- over/under pattern.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Serial Number

- serial number rationalization is unknown.
- Spanish government instituted a new system for firearm's serial numbering in 1995.
- Spanish system incorporated the code number of the gunmaker/manufactuer, weapon code, serial number sequence, and year of manufacturer.
- Spanish serial number example is as follows: "31 - 03 - 1#0#1 - 95".
- serial number break down: the first two numbers (31) are the code numbers for the manufacture, the next two numbers (03) are the code numbers for shotgun, the next Numbers are the serial number sequence, and the last two numbers (95) are the year of manufacture.

Barrel

- other barrel lengths may be available, but not specified in reference.

Make	- American Arms, Incorpoated was an importer and manufacturer located in North Kansas City, Missouri, U.S.A. until 2000.
Model	- American Arms Incorporated offered several variations of the Uberti produced reproduction of the Colt model 1873 Single Action Army. While all variations share the same basic features, each individual model was offered with either a different finish or in a different calibre. - all models feature: single action trigger mechanism; blade front sight with a notch rear or adjustable target style rear sight (Buckhorn Target model); loading gate on the right side of the receiver/frame; ejector rod mounted on the right side of the barrel. - individual models include; - Buckhorn; this model was available in calibre 44 MAG with a blued barrel and cylinder, colour case hardened receiver/frame and brass trigger guard/grip frame. - Buckhorn Target; same as the Buckhorn but has a flat topstrap and is fitted with a ramp front sight and an adjustable rear sight. - Regulator; this model was available in calibres 357 MAG, 44-40 WIN, 45 COLT or with dual cylinder sets in calibres 44-40 WIN/44 SPL or 45 AUTO/45 COLT. The Regulator had a bright nickel finish or a blued barrel and cylinder, colour case hardened receiver/frame and brass trigger guard/grip frame. - Regulator Deluxe; this model was available in calibre 45 COLT only. The Regulator Deluxe was the same as the Regulator but had a blued steel trigger guard and grip frame. - Silverado; this is simply a reproduction of the Colt 1873 Single Action Army with a matte nickel finish, non-fluted cylinder and laminated wood grip. - Storekeeper; this model had either a standard or bird's head grip, bright nickel finish and a 102mm barrel.
Manufacturer	- the Uberti name and/or logo will usually be marked on the underside of the barrel or other inconspicuous location.
Action	- single-action revolver.
Serial Number	- marked on the underside of the receiver/frame, forward of the trigger guard. - the sample examined used sequential numbers.
Calibre	- the calibre designation is usually marked on the barrel and cylinder.
Other Markings	- in accordance with Italian law, these guns will bear markings applied by the Italian National Proof House. These markings will include a National Firearms Catalogue number assigned to each individual firearm.

Notes

Make

- "American Arms Inc." is usually marked on the barrel.
- American Arms, Incorpoated was an importer and manufacturer located in North Kansas City, Missouri, U.S.A. until 2000.

Model

- American Arms Incorporated offered several variations of the Uberti produced reproduction of the Colt model 1873 Single Action Army. While all variations share the same basic features, each individual model was offered with either a different finish or in a different calibre.
- all models feature: single action trigger mechanism; blade front sight with a notch rear or adjustable target style rear sight (Buckhorn Target model); loading gate on the right side of the receiver/frame; ejector rod mounted on the right side of the barrel.
- individual models include;
- Buckhorn; this model was available in calibre 44 MAG with a blued barrel and cylinder, colour case hardened receiver/frame and brass trigger guard/grip frame.
- Buckhorn Target; same as the Buckhorn but has a flat topstrap and is fitted with a ramp front sight and an adjustable rear sight.
- Regulator; this model was available in calibres 357 MAG, 44-40 WIN, 45 COLT or with dual cylinder sets in calibres 44-40 WIN/44 SPL or 45 AUTO/45 COLT. The Regulator had a bright nickel finish or a blued barrel and cylinder, colour case hardened receiver/frame and brass trigger guard/grip frame.
- Regulator Deluxe; this model was available in calibre 45 COLT only. The Regulator Deluxe was the same as the Regulator but had a blued steel trigger guard and grip frame.
- Silverado; this is simply a reproduction of the Colt 1873 Single Action Army with a matte nickel finish, non-fluted cylinder and laminated wood grip.
- Storekeeper; this model had either a standard or bird's head grip, bright nickel finish and a 102mm barrel.

Manufacturer

- the Uberti name and/or logo will usually be marked on the underside of the barrel or other inconspicuous location.

Serial Number

- marked on the underside of the receiver/frame, forward of the trigger guard.
- the sample examined used sequential numbers.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Calibre - the calibre designation is usually marked on the barrel and cylinder.

Other Markings - in accordance with Italian law, these guns will bear markings applied by the Italian National Proof House. These markings will include a National Firearms Catalogue number assigned to each individual firearm.
