Notes

Make

- make is not marked on the firearm; the make is derived from the fact that this model/design of firearm originated at the Royal Small Arms Factory, Enfield.

Model

- no model name is marked on this firearm; model designation is derived from British Ordnance records.
- this rifle is basically a variant of the Pattern 1853 Artillery Carbine; it was authorized by British Ordnance on 15 March 1858, Order 77/18/50, as the "Pattern No. 2"; an official Pattern was produced by the Royal Small Arms Factory, Enfield in 1858 which became known as the Pattern 1858 Artillery Carbine.
- features include: muzzle loading, percussion ignition, exposed side hammer; 24"/610 mm barrel length; two bands, sling swivels and a sword bar on the front right side of the barrel; rear sight is a fixed "V" notch 100 yard sight with flip-up type leaves for 200 and 300 yards; brass furniture; 3-groove progressive depth rifling; walnut stock.
- differences between the Pattern 1853 Artillery Carbine (Pattern No.1) and the Pattern 1858 Artillery Carbine (Pattern No.2);
- no forward extension on the sword bar.
- no retaining lip on the forend cap for the ramrod.
- steel ramrod is 24"/610 mm long with a slotted jag head.
- forend cap similar to the Pattern 1853 rifle.

Manufacturer

- known example was marked "TOWER" on the lockplate in front of the hammer, over which is marked the date of manufacture; known example was dated 1862; the British Orndance "crown" is marked to the rear of the hammer.
- in addition, the manufacturers' name is marked, "JOSEPH BOURNE" on the toe of the buttstock, the inside of the lock and the bottom of the barrel.
- this firearm was made by the commercial firm of Joseph Bourne for British Service and was thusly inspected and approved for service by the Government storage facility at the Tower of London with the name "TOWER" being marked on the lockplate.
- various British Government proofmarks/acceptance marks as well as Birmingham Small Arms Trade proofmarks are apparent on this firearm.

Action

- muzzle loading, percussion ignition.

Calibre

- calibre is proofed on the breech end of the barrel as "25" which indicates "25 Bore"; 25 Bore is equivalent of .577" Bore.

Notes

Make	- named after the government arsenal where the firearm was designed. - the make does not appear on the rifle.
Model	- about 1,251 were made during 1912 and 1913. - official British nonemclature in March 1913 was: "Rifle, Magazine, Enfield, .276-inch. - do not confuse with the Enfield Model Pattern 1914.
Action	- manually operated, magazine fed, bolt action, repeating rifle. - modified Mauser type action.
Serial Number	- normally marked on the front right side of the receiver.
Calibre	- ".276" designation follows the British practice of using barrel bore diameter as the cartridge name. Bullet diameter is listed as .282" (nominal 7MM).
Remarks	- Assuming the rifle is in original configuration, the four angled finger grooves on both sides of the forend and the .276 bore diameter (smaller than the Pattern 1914, .303 bore diameter) are the main identification features. Also, the lack of manufacturer's markings as found on the Enfield Model 1914 rifles will assist in the correct identification.

Notes

Make	- "ENFIELD" is not marked on the firearm. - named after the government arsenal where the firearm was designed.
Model	- "Pattern 1914" is not marked on the firearm. - manufactured from 1915 to 1917. - Remington Arms (located in Eddystone) manufactured about 403,000 examples of this model. - "Pattern 1914" was also produced by Winchester. - "Pattern 1914" official pre 31 May 1926 nomenclature was: "Rifle, Magazine, .303 inch, Pattern 1914". - "Pattern 1914" post 31 May 1926, nomenclature became "Rifle No. 3 Mark 1" or "Rifle No. 3 Mark 1*". - "Pattern 1914" rifle is a Mauser type bolt action rifle with a one-piece, full length military style walnut stock, having a full length wood upper hand guard. - features include: protected blade front sight, protected elevation adjustable rear peep sight, bayonet lug, sling swivels, integral charger bridge, with an internal box magazine charged from the top using a five round stripper clip. - the rifle has a notable swept-back "dog-legged" bolt handle, a pronounced angular step on the front portion of the trigger guard, and a pair of substantial "wings" protecting the rear sights. - A cock on open conversion kit is available for the "P-14" pattern on Enfield rifles. This kit consists of a new cocking piece, a new striker spring and a Mauser style "Mark II" trigger.
Manufacturer	- "ERA" is marked on the receiver ring above the serial number. - "ERA" identifies the manufacturer as "Eddystone, Remington Arms" (Remington Arms, located in Eddystone). The actual corporate name of the temporary wartime company created to make this rifle at Eddystone was "Remington Arms of Delaware".
Action	- turn-bolt design.
Serial Number	- the serial number is marked on the right side of the receiver ring. - the serial number has no letter prefix or suffix. - "ERA" the manufacturer's identifier is marked above the serial number. - the serial number range is from 1 to about 605,000. - NOTE: the letter prefix of "W" in the serial number indicates the manufacturer to be "Winchester".
Shots	- internal box magazine.
Canadian Law Comments	- many examples of this model have been converted to hunting rifles by the removal of unnecessary wood and possible barrel shortening.
Remarks	- there were several small design changes in 1916 in the bolt and barrel causing rifles with the improved components to be called Pattern 1914 Mark 1*. - the original rifles with the older bolts and barrels then changed their nomenclature from "Pattern 1914" to "Pattern 1914 Mark 1". - many examples of this model have been converted to hunting rifles by the removal of unnecessary wood and possible barrel shortening.

- NOTE: letter "W" prefix in the serial number indicates the manufacturer to be "Winchester".

Shots

- internal box magazine.

Canadian Law Comments

- many examples of this model have been converted to hunting rifles by the removal of unnecessary wood and possible barrel shortening.

Remarks

- there were several small design changes in 1916 in the bolt and barrel causing rifles with the improved components to be called Pattern 1914 Mark 1*.
- the original rifles with the older bolts and barrels then changed their nomenclature from Pattern 1914 to Pattern 1914 Mark 1.
- for the purpose of the FRT, all are considered "Pattern 1914".
- many examples of this model have been converted to hunting rifles by the removal of unnecessary wood and possible barrel shortening. The different manufacturers' marks on the receiver will correctly identify the manufacturer and hence the correct FRT entry.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Model

- "Pattern 1914" is not marked on the firearm.
- manufactured from 1915 to 1917.
- Winchester manufactured about 235,500 examples of this model.
- "Pattern 1914" official pre 31 May 1926 nonemclature was: "Rifle, Magazine, .303 inch, Pattern 1914".
- "Pattern 1914" post 31 May 1926, nomenclature became "Rifle No. 3 Mark 1" or "Rifle No. 3 Mark*".
- there were several small design changes in 1916 in the bolt and barrel causing rifles with the improved components to be called Pattern 1914 Mark 1*.
- the original rifles with the older bolts and barrels then changed their nomenclature from Pattern 1914 to Pattern 1914 Mark 1.
- for the purpose of the FRT, all are considered "Pattern 1914".
- "Pattern 14" rifle is a sturdy Mauser type bolt action rifle with one piece full length military style walnut stock, having a full top-wood handguard.
- it has a protected blade front sight, protected elevation adjustable rear peep sight, bayonet lug, sling swivels, integral charger bridge, with an internal box magazine charged from the top using a 5 round stripper clip.
- the rifle has a noteable swept-back dog-legged bolt handle, a pronounced angular step on the front portion of the trigger guard, and a pair of substantial "wings" protecting the rear sights.

Manufacturer

- the manufacture's name is not marked on the firearm.
- the letter prefix of "W" in the serial number indicates the manufacturer to be "Winchester".
- do not confuse with Pattern 1914 rifles made by the other two manufacturers or confuse with the Pattern 1913.

Action

- turn-bolt design.

Serial Number

- serial number is marked on the right side of the receiver ring.
- serial number has a letter "W" prefix.
- serial number range is from W1 to about W235,500.

Shots

- internal box magazine.

Canadian Law Comments

- many examples of this model have been converted to hunting rifles by the removal of unnecessary wood and possible barrel shortening.

Remarks

- many examples of this model have been converted to hunting rifles by the removal of unnecessary wood and possible barrel shortening.
- this model has a noteable swept back dog-leg bolt handle, a pronounced angular step at the front part of the trigger guard and a pair of substantial "wings" or "ears" protecting the aperature rear sight.

Notes

Make

- the make does not appear on the firearm.
- named after the government arsenal where the firearm was designed.
- Enfield should not be confused with Lee-Enfield.

Model

- model does not appear on firearm
- this is a generic entry for the purpose of identifying an otherwise un-identifiable Enfield Pattern 1914 or US Rifle model 1917 when all markings are removed and no markings are added by the person customizing the firearm.
- the large external extractor, the safety located on the right rear of the receiver/frame and a raised boss on the right side of the front receiver ring distinguish this rifle.
- do not confuse this with the Lee-Enfield rifle with the detachable magazine.
- A cock on open conversion kit is available for the "P-14" pattern on Enfield rifles. This kit consists of a new cocking piece, a new striker spring and a Mauser style Mark II trigger.

Action

- turn-bolt design.

Serial Number

- usually marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Calibre	- calibre may be marked on the barrel. - these receiver/frames are commonly used to build custom rifles in a wide range of calibres.
Shots	- integral magazine.
Other Markings	- if "ERA" is marked on the receiver/frame the original manufacturer is the Remignton Arms factory located in Eddystyone. - if "RE" inside an oval is marked on the receiver/frame the original manufacturer is Remington. - if the serial number has a "W" prefix the original manufacturer is Winchester.
Remarks	- these rifles or receiver/frames are often used to make sporting rifles. - the receiver/frame may be extensively modified by removing the rear sight guards, straightening the floor plate of the magazine, cock on open conversion, drilling and tapping for scope mounts or commercial pattern sights, straightening the bolt handle and altering the bolt face. The stock may also be extensively modified.

Notes

Make

- make not marked on the firearm.

Model

- this model is also known as the "Erma Maschinen Pistole" or "Maschinen Pistole Erma".
- this is an early production submachine gun designed by Heinrich Vollmer, an employee of ERMA; this was one of the first submachine guns to use a captured mainspring inside a telescoping metal tube, a feature later used on both the MP-38 and MP-40.
- these submachine guns were built from 1930 until 1938, when ERMA began producing the MP-38; they remained in German military use until 1942, when they were replaced by the MP-40.
- stick magazine-fed through a magazine housing on the left side of a tubular receiver, a slot-ventilated barrel shroud, a half-length solid wood buttstock with a forward handgrip extending downwards, a selector-switch above the right side of the trigger-guard, adjustable rear sight with blade front, a knurled button that serves as a bolt-stop/"safety" in front of the trigger-guard, and a take-down latch that extends down through the rear of the trigger-guard. To field-strip this submachine gun, the bolt must be forward and both the trigger and the take-down latch must be pulled to the rear; this allows the tubular receiver to be rotated out of engagement with the locking lugs at the rear of the trigger-group/lower receiver, then the upper receiver can be pulled forward.
- though ERMA built this submachine gun primarily for domestic German military and police use, some examples were sold abroad (primarily France, Spain, Mexico, and Latin America). By the time of the Spanish Civil War, Spanish copies were also being produced for use by the Civil Guardia (both in 9mm Luger and 9mm Largo).

Manufacturer

- Erfurter Maschinenfabrik (ERMA) produced rifles, pistols, and submachine guns for the German Army and private commercial sales; they are best known for being the original producers of the MP-38 and MP-40 submachine guns (sometimes called "Schmeissers").

Model	- this is an early production submachine gun designed by Heinrich Vollmer, an employee of ERMA; this was one of the first submachine guns to use a captured mainspring inside a telescoping metal tube, a feature later used on both the MP-38 and MP-40. - these submachine guns were built from 1930 until 1938, when ERMA began producing the MP-38; they remained in German military use until 1942, when they were replaced by the MP-40. - stick-magazine-fed through a magazine housing on the left side of a tubular receiver, a slot-ventilated barrel shroud, a half-length solid wood buttstock with a forward handgrip extending downwards, a selector-switch above the right side of the trigger-guard, adjustable rear sight with blade front, a knurled button that serves as a bolt-stop/"safety" in front of the trigger-guard, and a take-down latch that extends down through the rear of the trigger-guard. To field-strip this submachine gun, the bolt must be forward and both the trigger and the take-down latch must be pulled to the rear; this allows the tubular receiver to be rotated out of engagement with the locking lugs at the rear of the trigger-group/lower receiver, then the upper receiver can be pulled forward. - though ERMA built this submachine gun primarily for domestic German military and police use, some examples were sold abroad (primarily France, Spain, Mexico, and Latin America). By the time of the Spanish Civil War, Spanish copies were also being produced for use by the Civil Guardia (both in 9mm Luger and 9mm Largo).
Manufacturer	- Spain produced several copies of this submachine gun during the Spanish Civil War. - the only marks indicating Spanish manufacture/ownership are the crossed cannon and sword of the Spanish Civil Guardia (usually found on the rear receiver housing).
Action	- selective-fire open-bolt blowback.
Serial Number	- numbered on the bolt and magazine housing.
Shots	- detachable box magazine.

Level:	Manufacturer Specifications and Commercial Customization
Type:	Rifle
Action:	Single-Shot
Country of Manufacturer:	GERMANY
Serial Numbering:
Legal Classification:	Non-Restricted

Calibre, Shots and Barrel Length

FRN	Calibre	Shots	Barrel (mm)	Legal Classification Legal Authority	Level	Barrel Type Code
4736 - 1	54 PERCUSSION	1	565	Non-Restricted CC 2 "firearm"	Manufacturer Specifications and Commercial Customization

Notes

Calibre	- This breechloading carbine requires a special brass cartridge case which the shooter loads with loose black gunpowder and lead bullet. A separate percussion cap placed on the nipple on the right rear side of the receiver is necessary to detonate the powder.
Also Known As/Product Code	- Due to the fact that this firearm is a breechloader that requires a cartridge and separate percussion cap for firing, the proper terminology to describe this is "capping breech loading".
Remarks	- This is a replica of the American Civil War vintage Gallager Model 1860 breechloading percussion carbine. It features an underlever which when pulled downward causes the barrel to move forward and then tip down to expose the chamber for loading, the lever then is moved upwards, returning the barrel to battery.

Canadian Law Comments

- This firearm is normally Non-Restricted unless affected by the following conditions:

1) by combining a barrel from a licensed firearms manufacture that is less than 406mm (16.0") in length and a receiver/frame fitted with a pistol grip only, this firearm may be deemed a "handgun" and therefore "RESTRICTED" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (a) of the Criminal Code of Canada.
"Handgun" means a firearm that is designed, altered or intended to be aimed and fired by the action of one hand, whether or not it has been redesigned or subsequently altered to be aimed and fired by the action of both hands.

2) "a firearm that is designed or adapted to be fired when reduced to a length of less than 660 mm by folding, telescoping or otherwise" and therefore "Restricted" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (c) of the Criminal Code of Canada.

3) by combining a barrel that has been altered to less than 457mm (18.0") in length by a non-licensed firearms manufacturer (cottage industry, individual or gunsmith) regardless of whether the shotgun has a pistol grip or conventional stock, this firearm is "PROHIBITED" and subject to the definition of a "prohibited firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 of the Criminal Code of Canada.
"Prohibited firearm" means a firearm that is adapted from a rifle or shotgun, whether by sawing, cutting or any other alteration, and that, as so adapted,
(i) is less than 660 mm in length, or
(ii) is 660mm or greater in length and has a barrel less than 457 mm in length.

25572 - 1	7.65MM	7	83	Prohibited CC 84(1) "prohibited firearm" para. (a)	Manufacturer Specifications and Commercial Customization

Notes

Make

- ESPERANZA Y UNCETA was founded in July 1908 at Eibar, Spain.
- the company moved to Guernica, Spain in 1913. The pistols produced at the Guernica plant are marked "GUERNICA" on the slide.

Model

- may also be known as MODEL 100, MODEL 1911/100 or 1911. The pistol was also marked under the tradename VICTORIA.
- the HAMMERLESS designation added to model name to differentiate this model from the "external hammer" type.
- the word "HOPE" on the exposed portion of the barrel hood at the ejection port was a definitive characteristic of ESPARANZA Y UNCETA made pistols. HOPE is the english translation of the Spanish name ESPERANZA.

Serial Number

- all completed pistols manufactured by ESPERANZA Y UNCETA irrespective of calibre or model were numbered in a single sequential serial numbering system that started with serial number 1. (There is an exception with the CAMPO-GIRO model 1913 and 1913-16 series of pistols for the Spanish Army which had their own serial number range starting at number 1.)
- in 1983 ASTRA started a new sequential numbering system which was prefixed by an alpha character. This new system started with the M4000 FALCON model at serial number A0001.

Notes

Make

- "ESSEX ARMS" or "ESSEX ARMS CORP" may be marked on the right side of the receiver/frame.

Model

- this is a copy of a Colt 1911 semi automatic pistol, made by Essex Arms for commercial sales, complete gun or receiver/frame only(for custom built) are availiable through this manufacturer. It is generally possible to install a slide bearing one manufacturer's name onto a receiver/frame made by another manufacturer; thus the name appearing on the slide is not necessarily the manufacturer of the receiver/frame
- the key feature that identifies the 1911A1 from the 1911, is the 1911A1 has a relief cut on the receiver/frame behind the trigger, humped mainspring housing, longer spur grip safety, and shorter trigger.
- since receiver/frames only are availiable through this manufacturer for commercial sales, this firearm may be found in almost any configuration of caliber/barrel length, finish and slide design. Slide may bear the name and/or "model" of the custom builder and most of the time are a "one of a kind" unit.

197382 - 1	44 PERCUSSION	6	191	Restricted CC 84(1) "restricted firearm" para. (a)	Manufacturer Specifications and Commercial Customization

Notes

Make

- "Euroarms - Brescia" is marked the top of the barrel of the firearm.
- Euroarms ceased operations circa 2011.
- "Euroarms" was established in 2002 and continued production of black powder reproduction arms and accessories, selling through "Euroarms of America".
- Previously the same black powder reproductions were sold under the name of "Armi San Paolo" until 2002.

Model

- Colt manufactured revolver of this type from 1851 to 1873.
- May also be known as "1851 Yank".
- May also be known as the "Belt" revolver.
- This reproduction model is the 44 calibre version of the Colt 1851 "Navy" model, in 36 percussion, and was commonly known as the "Army Model" or "New Model Army".
- Features include: blued octagonal or round barrel, a fixed small bead for a front sight; case hardened receiver/frame, either blued or brass; single action trigger mechanism; spurred hammer and the loading lever located under the barrel; silver plated round or square back trigger guard; silver plated or blued iron backstrap; grip panels in various configurations.
- Options include: full silver, gold or nickel plating, or various finish combinations, with or without engraving; ebony, ivory, and oak or pearl grip panels; may contain a detachable shoulder stock option.
- Options include: cased set with both calibres of 36 Percussion and 44 Percussion (cased set may be known as "1851 Yank").

Manufacturer

- "Euroarms - Brescia" is marked the top of the barrel of the firearm.
- Euroarms ceased operations circa 2011.
- "Euroarms" was established in 2002 and continued production of black powder reproduction arms and accessories, selling through "Euroarms of America".
- Previously the same black powder reproductions were sold under the name of "Armi San Paolo" until 2002.

Action

- External percussion cap ignition.
- Front revolver/cylinder loading.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Other Markings

- Additional markings may be found on the receiver/frame of the firearm, such as: a swirling bullet crest over two letters, "PN"; a circle over a shield like crest; roman numeral markings (ex: XX7), usually to denote year of production.
- Common Italian proof marks and inspector marks.

Remarks

- Common terms existed at the time to define the "type" of firearm based on calibre configuration. All references point to the calibre of 36 percussion belonging to the "Navy" model/version of this firearm, whereas the 44 percussion was known as the "Army" model/version. There are no visual references to confirm or deny the existence of this model, as there are prolific references to the 1851 Navy model with side notes or added data confirming that the .44 CAL were deemed or known as "Army".

Notes

Make

- "EVANIX" is marked on both side of the firearm.

Model

- "REX" is marked on the both side of the receiver/frame.
- this is a pre-charged pneumatic air rifle designed for target competition and hunting, designed with a very "futuristic" appearance, having a bare frame with accessory rail on the top, a barrel shroud, and a sliding adjustable buttstock with vertical buttpad.
- features include: black anodized finish; barrel shroud; PCP cylinder; finger-grooved synthetic pistol-grip; trigger guard used as underlever; metal stock with integrated pressure gauge and a vertical buttplate; and blued finish.
- Rex barrel shroud acts as a sound suppressor/moderator.
- overall length with a 300mm (11.8") barrel is 735mm (28.9"), and average weight is 1.9kg (4.2lb).
- a pistol version is also available.

Manufacturer

- "EVANIX" is marked on both side of the firearm.
- "Evanix" or "Meca Evanix Corporation" is located in Seoul, Korea and has been in business since 1994.

Action

- pre-charged pneumatic (PCP) cylinder.
- discharges a projectile at a muzzle velocity exceeding 152.4 mps and a muzzle energy exceeding 5.7 Joules.

Serial Number

- serial number is marked on the right side of the firearm.

Canadian Law Comments

- this firearm may have left the factory equipped with a sound suppressor/silencer. The sound suppressor is subject to the definition of "Prohibited Device" in Section 84, Part III (Firearms and Other Weapons) of the Criminal Code of Canada.

- if the complete sound suppressor/silencer (prohibited device) is removed, the firearm is correctly identified as a "Non-Restricted Firearm". NOTE: removal of the internal components of the sound suppressor/silencer (prohibited device) is not sufficient to mitigate a prohibited classification. All components of the sound suppressor/silencer, including the device body, end caps, mounting hardware, all internal parts (baffles, screens, spacers, wipes, etc.), must be removed.

Notes

Make

- "EVANS SPORTING RIFLE" is marked on the barrel.

Model

- "EVANS SPORTING RIFLE" is marked on the barrel.
- this is an unusual appearing lever-action rifle that feeds from a spiral magazine in the butt.
- these rifles were conversions from Evans' New Model Military Musket, which retained the 30"/762mm barrel, but replaced the two-band full-length forearm with a shorter screwed-on forearm.
- these rifles were constructed in a "clamshell" pattern, with the left and right halves of the receiver stamped out separately, then joined to construct the receiver/frame and integral magazine.
- two-piece wooden buttstock (upper and lower), wooden forearm, adjustable sights, sling swivels, lever catch, and an ejection-port dust-cover that rotates rear-ward as the rifle is cocked.
- these rifles were built from New Model Military Muskets after the Evans Repeating Rifle Comapny folded, and should not be confused with prior (Old Model, New Model, or Transitional Model).

Manufacturer

- Evans Repeating Rifle Company was a manufacturer located in Mechanic Falls, Maine, U.S.A. from 1868 to 1879.
- Evans Repeating Rifle Company produced several models of an unusual lever-action rifle that fed metallic cartridges from a spiral magazine in the butt.

Shots

- integral spiral magazine in the butt of the rifle.

Model	- this is a standard-pattern side by side side shotgun with or without hammers; with ejectors and/or extractors; side, top or double grip opening lever; made in both boxlock and sidelock variations and with Damascus or fluid steel barrels. - these shotguns were available with any amount of custom work, engraving, special barrel lengths, etc. that the customer was willing to pay for, but all would have had straight-grip walnut stocks and double triggers. - some of these models, when manufactured before 1898 may be "Antique" and therefore do not require registration.
Action	- side by side pattern.
Serial Number	- an observed example of the serial number consisted of five numbers.

Canadian Law Comments

- this firearm is normally Non-Restricted unless affected by the following conditions:

1) by combining a barrel from a licensed firearms manufacture that is less than 406mm (16.0") in length and a receiver/frame fitted with a pistol grip only, this firearm may be deemed a "handgun" and therefore "RESTRICTED" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (a) of the Criminal Code of Canada.
- "handgun" means a firearm that is designed, altered or intended to be aimed and fired by the action of one hand, whether or not it has been redesigned or subsequently altered to be aimed and fired by the action of both hands.

2) "a firearm that is designed or adapted to be fired when reduced to a length of less than 660 mm by folding, telescoping or otherwise" and therefore "Restricted" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (c) of the Criminal Code of Canada.

3) by combining a barrel that has been altered to less than 457mm (18.0") in length by a non-licensed firearms manufacturer (cottage industry, individual or gunsmith) regardless of whether the shotgun has a pistol grip or conventional stock, this firearm is "PROHIBITED" and subject to the definition of a "prohibited firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 of the Criminal Code of Canada.
- "prohibited firearm" means a firearm that is adapted from a rifle or shotgun, whether by sawing, cutting or any other alteration, and that, as so adapted,
(i) is less than 660 mm in length, or
(ii) is 660mm or greater in length and has a barrel less than 457 mm in length.

Notes

Make

- "Falisse & Trapmann" used the initial "FT" as trademark.
- "Falisse & Trapmann", "FT" has been observed also inside a circle or a diamond shape.
- "Falisse & Trapmann" was located in Liege, Belgium from 1850 to 1884.

Model

- model is not marked on the firearm.
- "Screw Barrel Pistol" designation is derived from the method by which this pistol is loaded; loading is accomplished by unscrewing the barrel.
- "Screw Barrel Pistol" is usually of small overall size to fit a coat pocket and of a bore diameter from 32 to 60 calibre.
- features include: no sights; round or octagonal barrel; flat sided receiver/frame; folding trigger; external hammer mounted in the receiver/frame; wood grip; bright finish with light engraving.

Manufacturer

- "Falisse & Trapmann" used the initial "FT" as trademark.
- "Falisse & Trapmann", "FT" has been observed also inside a circle or a diamond shape.
- "Falisse & Trapmann" was located in Liege, Belgium from 1850 to 1884.

Action

- the barrel unscrews in front of the chamber, so it can be loaded with a ball that fits the barrel more tightly than is possible with a muzzle loader.
- the barrel may be rifled.

Serial Number

- serial number of a referenced example consisted of two numbers on the barrel and two numbers on the inside of the hammer.

Action	- gas operated.
Serial Number	- serial number is marked on the right side of the receiver/frame. - observed serial number consisted of the model information, "FD-30A" followed by seven numbers without suffix. - On 2016-06-20, Falkor Defense changed their lower receiver drawings. - models with a serial number higher than 2000 , i.e. FD-30A 0002001, represents the new design which is a narrow cavity. The narrow fire control cavity of the receiver/frame prevents a full-automatic sear from fitting within the interior of the receiver/frame.
Calibre	- the calibre designation is marked on the inside of the dust cover and may be repeated on the barrel.
Shots	- detachable box magazine.
Canadian Law Comments	- there are two receiver designs available for this firearm: 1) the wide cavity design is considered susceptible to being readily and easily converted from semi-automatic to fire shots in rapid succession with one pressure of the trigger in a relatively short period of time with relative ease and as a result has a prohibited classification. 2) The narrow cavity design is considered an adequate method of preventing the installation of a full-automatic sear within the receiver/frame and as a result has either a restricted or non-restricted legal classification based on barrel length.

Notes

Make

- the make does not appear on the firearm.

Model

- "FG 42" is marked on the top of the receiver/frame.
- produced from 1942 to 1945 and does not appear to be dated to the year of production.
- the FG 42 in all of its sub models had a total production of less than 7,500 examples.
- features include, straight line design with a light bipod and integral bayonet; open bolt firing in full automatic mode and closed bolt firing in single shot mode; vented barrel shroud, vertical or raked pistol grip; blued finish.
- overall length is 940mm/37".

Action

- no longer capable of full automatic fire.

Serial Number

- serial number may be found on the top of the receiver forward of the ejection opening.
- serial numbers from L.O. Dietrich (gcy) seem to have followed the same conventions as that from Kreighoff (fzs), namely one to five digits without the lower case script letter suffix normally incorporated into the German serial numbers. Example - 0155
- serial numbers from Kreighoff (fzs) seen in reference texts may or may not have a zero prefix: 68, 1999, 00004, 04455, 04456, 02009, 1700, etc.

Shots

- magazines available in 10 or 20 shot capacity.

Notes

Make

- "FAMAE" is usually marked on the left side of the firearm.

Model

- "MINI SAF" is usually marked on the left side of the firearm.
- this model is the compact version of the Famae SAF submachine gun.
- the SAF model series of submachine gun is based on the overall design concept of the SIG model SG540 assault rifle, however, it utilizes a completely different operating system to that of the assault rifle; Famae is/was a manufacturer of the SIG SG540 model series as licenced by SIG.
- blow back operated, capable of full-automatic fire, detachable box magazine, fires from the closed bolt position utilizing a hammer-driven, floating firing pin arrangement.
- additional features: capable of semi-automatic, 3-round burst or full automatic fire, overall length of 310 mm with shoulder stock folded, cocking lever located on the right side of the upper receiver housing, right side ejection, bolt hold-open lever located on the left side of the receiver/frame; this device keeps the bolt open after the last round has been fired and the magazine is empty,
- buttstock may be; plastic coated, tubular steel, right side, folding-type with synthetic butt plate or fixed type made of black, solid synthetic material, is supplied with a vertical-type handgrip which also has a finger guard to prevent the fingers from slipping in front of the muzzle; this grip is mounted on the underside of the barrel in front of the receiver/frame and is very similar in appearance to the handgrip utilized on the Heckler & Koch, MP5K submachine gun,
- magazines are made of a translucent synthetic material which allows the user to view the contents; these magazines also have studs and slots in their sides which permits two or more magazines to be "clipped" together,
- chrome plated chamber and bore, safety/selector lever located on the left side of the receiver/frame, push-forward type magazine release lever is located in front of the trigger guard, adjustable front and rear sights, threaded muzzle end with protective screw-on cover,
- parkerized finish.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Manufacturer

- "FAMAE" is usually marked on the left side of the firearm.
- FAMAE is the trade name for Fabrica de Materiel del Ejercito (also known as, Fabricas y Maestranzas del Ejercito) which is a Chilean defense products manufacturer established in 1811 and located in Santiago, Chile.

Action

- blow back operated.

Serial Number

- the serial number is marked on the left side of the upper receiver/frame and may be repeated on other components.
- serial number rationalization unknown.
- observed specimen serial numbers consisted of an alpha character prefix followed by a dash followed by a series of five digits.
- the letter prefix "M" has been observed.

Canadian Law Comments

- in the case of this firearm, it has been determined that the component; commonly referred to as the upper receiver assembly, into which the barrel is mounted and which contains the breech mechanism and upon which the Manufacturer's identification, Model identification, Proof information, and the full serial number is marked, is the Receiver/Frame for the purposes stated within the Firearms Act and the Criminal Code of Canada.

Model	- "MINI SAF SA" is usually marked on the left side of the firearm. - this model is the compact commercial version of the Famae MINI SAF submachine gun and is manufactured to fire in the semi-automatic mode only. - the SAF model series of submachine gun is based on the overall design concept of the SIG model SG540 assault rifle however it utilizes a completely different operating system to that of the assault rifle; Famae is/was a manufacturer of the SIG SG540 model series as made under licence from SIG. - blow back operated, fires from closed bolt position utilizing a hammer-driven, floating firing pin arrangement. - additional features: overall length of 310 mm without the shoulder stock, cocking lever on the right side of the upper receiver housing, right side ejection, bolt hold-open lever located on the left side of the receiver/frame; this device keeps the bolt open after the last round is fired and the magazine is empty, - buttstock may be; plastic coated, tubular steel, right side, folding-type with synthetic butt plate or fixed type made of black solid synthetic material, - is supplied with a vertical-type handgrip which also has a finger guard to prevent the fingers from slipping in front of the muzzle; this grip is mounted on the underside of the barrel in front of the receiver/frame and is very similar in appearance to the handgrip utilized on the Heckler & Koch, MP5K submachine gun. - the magazines are made of a translucent synthetic material which allows the contents to be viewed by the user; these magazines also have studs and slots in their sides which permit two or more magazines to be "clipped" together, - chrome plated chamber and bore, - safety/selector lever located on the left side of the receiver/frame, - push-forward type magazine release lever is located in front of the trigger guard, - adjustable front and rear sights, - may have a threaded muzzle end with protective screw-on cover, - parkerized finish.
Manufacturer	- "FAMAE" is usually marked on the left side of the firearm.
Type	- designed and manufactured to be capable of semi-automatic fire only.
Action	- blow back operated. - manufactured to fire semi-automatic only.
Serial Number	- the serial number is marked on the left side of the upper receiver/frame and may be repeated on other components. - serial number of referenced examples consisted of a letter prefix a dash and five numbers. - serial number of referenced examples also consisted of two letter prefix a dash and five numbers.
Calibre	- calibre designation is marked on the left side of the upper receiver/frame.
Shots	- detachable box magazine.
Canadian Law Comments	- in the case of this firearm, it has been determined that the component; commonly referred to as the upper receiver assembly, into which the barrel is mounted and which contains the breech mechanism and upon which the Manufacturer's identification, Model identification, Proof information, and the full serial number is marked, is the Receiver/Frame for the purposes stated within the Firearms Act and the Criminal Code of Canada.
Other Markings	- known examples have been marked "BRUGGER & THOMET" on the left side of the upper receiver housing. - apparently the major components of this firearm are manufactured by FAMAE in Chile, then sent to Brugger & Thomet in Switzerland for final machining and assembly using additional components that are "semi-automatic" only, therefore, the company name of "BRUGGER & THOMET" is usually marked on the commercial version of the SAF model series.
