Model	- "FX19" is marked at the bottom of the right grip. - "FX19" is also marked as the prefix of the serial number. - "FX19" is a customized Glock 19 variant. - "FX19" can use all commercially available Glock 19 parts and magazines. - "FX19", as the Glock semi-automatic pistols, are equipped with the Glock proprietary "Safe Action" system, which does not use a traditional single action or double action trigger mechanism. - Glock's "Safe Action" system is a partly tensioned firing pin/striker, which is moved further back by the trigger bar when the trigger is pulled. When the trigger is pulled, three safety features (trigger safety, firing pin safety, and drop safety) are automatically deactivated one after another. When doing so, the trigger bar is deflected downward by the connector and the firing pin is released under full load. When the trigger is released, all three safety features re-engage. - features include: high profile, fixe, fiber optic front and dovetailed rear sights; a optic ready platform for a red dot sight in front of the rear sight; round steel barrel that may be threaded, have flutes or dimples made of steel or stainless steel in a variety of colour applied finish; flat sided steel slide with right side ejection; non standard, custom front and rear grip serrations; may have a skeletonized cut on the side and top, front end of the slide; polymer receiver/frame with accessory rail and oblong trigger guard with a grip undercut for a high grip; single trigger with integral safety lever; slide lock/release and magazine release are located on the left side of the receiver/frame; black or colour finish. - overall length with a 113 mm (4.47") barrel is 228.6 mm (9"), and the average weight, unloaded is 0.57 kg (1.25 lbs).
Action	- recoil operated.
Serial Number	- serial number is marked on a metal insert imbedded in the underside of the receiver/frame ahead of the trigger guard. - serial number of a referenced example consisted of the prefix "FX19" and five numbers.
Calibre	- calibre designation is marked on the barrel, visible through the ejection port. - 9MM LUGER rifling characteristics: 1 turn in 10 inches, right hand twist.
Shots	- detachable box magazine. - use Glock 19 magazine, that may have a five rounds magazine extension.
Remarks	- receiver/ frame is a completed and customized Polymer 80 80% receiver.

Canadian Law Comments

- the Faxon Firearms model XRS-C is a prohibited firearm within the meanings of the Criminal Code PART III, Section 84 definitions of automatic firearm and prohibited firearm:

"automatic firearm" means a firearm that is capable of, or assembled or designed and manufactured with the capability of, discharging projectiles in rapid succession during one pressure of the trigger;

"prohibited firearm" means
(c) an automatic firearm, whether or not it has been altered to discharge only one projectile with one pressure of the trigger.

- the 458 SOCOM cartridge was designed to be used in standard M16 rifle and M4 carbine magazines. In the case of AR platform firearms chambered for 458 SOCOM calibre, conventional M16, M4 and AR-15 magazines can be used provided they contain no more than five 5.56x45 mm NATO cartridges. It is possible that some magazines are modified to work better with the 458 SOCOM cartridge but this has no effect on maximum legal capacity.

Notes

Make

- the make may not be marked on the firearm.

Model

- the model designation may not be marked on the firearm.
- this is a full-power automatic rifle designed by Vladimir Federov in an attempt to equip First World War Russian troops with a BAR-type rifle that could be used in a "walking fire" maneuver; as such, this was an early "assault rifle", but still chambered for a true full-power rifle cartridge, rather than the reduced-power cartridge of a true "assault rifle".
- features include: half-length wooden pistol-grip stock with a wooden vertical fore-grip and a ventilated sheet-metal forearm; round cocking handle on the right side of the bolt; curved box magazine with the magazine release in front of the magazine; and open adjustable sights.
- although this rifle entered service too late to see much WW1 service, after the Communist Revolution, the Bolsheviks continued to produce these rifles in limited numbers because of the promising design.

Manufacturer

- the manufacturer or logo thereof is marked on the firearm.

Action

- recoil operated.

Serial Number

Notes

Model

- this is a highly specialized match grade air rifle without a recoil dampening mechanism. The same firearm is available with a recoil dampening mechanism as the Model 300.
- features include: micrometer rear sight with a globe front sight and an adjustable trigger.
- available in left or right hand stock versions in "Standard" stock configuration only, the stock has stippled gripping areas instead of checkering, and a crescent shaped buttplate.

Manufacturer

- Feinwerkbau is a manufacturer located in Oberndorf, Germany, that is known for its match-grade air guns and firearms.

Action

- single stroke, spring operated, pneumatic air rifle, cocked with a handle on the right side.
- discharges a projectile at a muzzle velocity exceeding 152.4 mps and a muzzle energy exceeding 5.7 Joules.

Remarks

- the Model 200 Feinwerkbau air rifle is essentially the same firearm as the Feinwerkbau Model 300 air rifle. The Model 300 has a recoil dampening device and has a wider range of selection of stock shapes and configurations for right and left handed users.

Notes

Model

- this firearm is a highly specialized match grade air rifle with a recoil dampening mechanism. The same firearm is available without the recoil dampening mechanism as the Model 200.
- features include: micrometer rear and globe front sights and an adjustable trigger.
- available in left or right hand stock versions in and in Match, Tirolean, or Standard stock configurations, the stock has stippled gripping areas instead of checkering, and a crescent shaped buttplate.

Manufacturer

- Feinwerkbau is a manufacturer located in Oberndorf, Germany, that is known for its match-grade air guns and firearms.

Action

- single stroke, spring operated, pneumatic air rifle, cocked with a handle on the right side.
- discharges a projectile at a muzzle velocity exceeding 152.4 mps and a muzzle energy exceeding 5.7 Joules.

Remarks

- the Model 300 Feinwerkbau air rifle is essentially the same firearm as the Feinwerkbau Model 200 air rifle. The Model 200 is simply a Model 300 without the recoil dampening device and has a smaller availability/selection of stock shapes and configurations for right and left handed users.

Manufacturer

- Aguirre Y Aranzabal is a manufacturer located in Eibar, Spain, that specializes in manufacturing multi-barrel shotguns.

Action

- side by side barrel configuration, hinged barrel design.

Serial Number

- serial number is usually marked on the watertable of the receiver/frame.
- in 1995, the Spanish government instituted a new system for firearm's serial numbering. This system incorporated the code number of the gunmaker/manufactuer, weapon code, serial number sequence, and year of manufacturer.
- an example of a serial number is as follows: "16 - 03 - #0# - 95".
- serial number break down, the first two numbers (16) are the code numbers for the manufacture, the next two numbers (03) are the code numbers for shotgun, the next Numbers are the serial number sequence and the last two numbers (95) are the year of manufacture.

- specimen serial number observed consisted of a letter prefix followed by six digits.

Shots

- detachable box magazine.

Remarks

- This firearm has an interesting history. It started life as the "ASTRA" model "2000" made in Spain in calibre 22 SHORT.
- It then became the "ASTRA" model "CUB" for North American export / consumption in 1954.
- In 1956 with a 102MM barrel length it became the "CAMPER". The "CAMPER" and "CUB" are identical except for a drift-adjustable rear sight on the "CAMPER" and the longer barrel on the "CAMPER".
- In 1956 the "CUB" was introduced in a new calibre, 25 AUTO or 6.35MM.
- In 1958 "ASTRA" started manufacturing the "CUB" as the "COLT" model "JUNIOR COLT" in both 22 SHORT & 25 AUTO. The USA Gun Control Act of 1968 put an end to the importation of the "COLT" model "JUNIOR COLT".

Notes

Make

- "FIELD RIFLE CO." over "BIRMINGHAM" was observed marked on the left side of the firearm.
- William Field's Patent No. 1927 of May 1877 is for a single shot action with either a Martini type rear hinged, lever operated tipping block design, or a Farquharson type lever operated vertical dropping/falling block design.
- Field's Patent No 1927 is characterized by a right side mounted operating lever on the receiver/frame which was moved forward to lower the breech block, cock the hammer and actuate the extractor at the end of the opening stroke; pulling back on the lever closed the action; most of these actions had an external hammer and an inertia striker in the breech block, although hammerless versions were also made.

Model

- model designation is not marked on the firearm.
- features include: round barrel with blade front sight, multiple hinged leaf rear sight and cleaning rod mounted underneath; Martini action with long lever and cocking indicator on the right side; full-length straight grip stock with two barrel bands; sling swivels.

Manufacturer	- "FIELD RIFLE COMPANY" was located in Birmingham, England at 2 King Alfred Place, Broad Street from 1885 to 1896, 2 Cambridge Street from 1987 to 1898, and 58 Cambridge Street from 1904 to circa 1913. - "FIELD RIFLE & MOTOR COMPANY" was located at 58 Cambridge Street from 1914 to 1915. - "FIELD RIFLE & GUN COMPANY" was located at 58 Cambridge Street from 1916 to 1917. - "FIELD RIFLE COMPANY" was located at 58 Cambridge Street from 1918 to 1920. - "FIELD RIFLE COMPANY" was located in Birmingham, England at 2 King Alfred Place, Broad Street from 1885 to 1896, 2 Cambridge Street from 1987 to 1898, and 58 Cambridge Street from 1904 to circa 1913. - "FIELD RIFLE & MOTOR COMPANY" was located at 58 Cambridge Street from 1914 to 1915. - "FIELD RIFLE & GUN COMPANY" was located at 58 Cambridge Street from 1916 to 1917. - "FIELD RIFLE COMPANY" was located at 58 Cambridge Street from 1918 to 1920. - William Field was the manager of the Field Rifle Company of Birmingham, England from 1885 to 1898. - William Field was the inventor of an action, patented on May 17 1877, as No. 1927. It is believed that Field Rifle Company supplied this patented action to other makers, as they do not appear to have made complete rifles. The manufacturers who utilized his action include many of the best know firms of that era.
Action	- rear hinged, lever operated tipping block design. - Martini action is locked in the firing position by the tip of the operating lever holding the breech block face up and in line with the chamber.
Serial Number	- serial number is marked on the right side of the receiver/frame and repeated on the barrel. - observed serial number consisted of a letter "D" prefix and one number.
Canadian Law Comments	- some examples of this model, when manufactured prior to 1898, are considered "Antique" in Canada.

Notes

Make

- "G. FISHER" is marked under the barrel.

Model

- not marked with model designation, features determine the model.
- manufactured circa 1850 to 1880.
- features a detachable ball-handled crank with a square end-drive, which is inserted into a port near the rear right side of the receiver/frame: the crank drives a pinion gear along a rack, drawing and compressing a helical double main-spring which powers the piston; a dog engaging the rack retains the piston and compressed spring, which is released by the trigger mechanism.
- the rifle has a conventional chequered straight buttstock and full or partial forearm of walnut, cylindrical steel air compression chamber ahead of a short housing of the wind-up mechanism, looped trigger-guard, and single or set triggers.
- these guns were usually very finely crafted and decorated; sometimes engraved.

Manufacturer

- "G. Fisher" produced air guns in New York, New York, U.S.A.

Action

- operation: spring-air. (wind-up crank compresses heavy spring, which drives a piston within a cylindrical chamber, to compress the air, which drives the pellet).

Serial Number

- serial numbers have been reported on several units.
- observed specimen did not have a serial number.

Calibre

- not marked with calibre designation.
- reported to be common for 28 calibre ball, some reported up to 32 calibre.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Remarks

- reported to be made with rifled bores for use with pellets or ball, and in smoothbore for use with special darts.
- Wind-Up Air Rifles of this type were also manufactured in Europe, principally Germany: these were differentiated, as most were smooth-bores, and equipped with slide-aside covers for the crank-handle port.

Notes

Make

- the Flobert pattern was originally designed and manufactured by Louis Nicholas Auguste Flobert and was subsequently copied by many Belgium and European manufacturers.
- Louis Nicholas Auguste Flobert, French gunsmith (1819-1894) Paris, France, patented a self contained cartridge and a simple firearm mechanism inwhich to use it.

Model

- manufactured from approximately 1850 to 1932.
- model designation does not appear on the firearm, but is rather a description of the action.
- this is an unlocked breech with a separate extractor, the hammer acts as a breech block, the hammer face is smooth except for the two half circle cavities leaving a ridge across the center to form the bar firing pin, the face of the breech is also smooth. The extractor half circles the cartridge head and has a small thumb piece extending to the right so it can be flipped back to extract the case from the chamber.
- the barrel is octagonal with fixed rear and front sights.
- the one piece walnut stock with prominent flats on each side of the receiver is also fitted with a checkered semi pistol grip.

Manufacturer

- may be marked with "Made in Belgium" and/or Belgium proofmarks.

Canadian Law Comments

- some examples of this model, when manufactured prior to 1898, are considered "Antique" in Canada.

Other Markings

- the majority of Flobert rifles commonly encountered in America were originally made in Belgium, and are marked with Belgium proof marks.

Notes

Make

- the Flobert pattern was originally designed and manufactured by Louis Nicholas Auguste Flobert and was subsequently copied by many Belgium and other European manufacturers.
- Louis Nicholas Auguste Flobert, French gunsmith (1819-1894) Paris, France, patented a self contained cartridge and a simple firearm mechanism in which to use it.

Model

- manufactured from approximately 1850 to 1932.
- model designation does not appear on the firearm, but is rather a description of the action.
- this was the last and final improvement on the Flobert rifle, later called "The Warnant Springfield"; the breech block was attached to the breech end of the barrel, so it could be swung up to open the action for loading and unloading the rifle.
- since this system was much stronger than all other Flobert actions previously made, it was available in stronger calibers and heavier barrels.
- the barrel is octagonal with fixed rear and front sights, and available in regular or heavy pattern.
- the one piece walnut stock with prominent flats on each side of the receiver is also fitted with a checkered semi pistol grip.

Manufacturer

- may be marked with "Made in Belgium" and/or Belgium proofmarks.

Canadian Law Comments

- some examples of this model, when manufactured prior to 1898, are considered "Antique" in Canada.

Notes

Make

- no maker's name appears on this firearm.
- the name Flobert is used to denote a pattern of firearm as originally designed and manufactured by Louis Flobert to fire his patented 22 BB (bulleted breech) self-contained cartridge. The design was patented in 1845. In the Flobert system the hammer performed the dual function of breech block and firing pin.

Model

- no model name appears on this firearm.
- this type of firearm represents the Warnant System addition/improvement to the Flobert system whereby the breech block is hinged at the rear of the barrel allowing it to swing up and forward to open the action for loading/unloading.
- known example had a sliding-type extractor actuated by the movement of the breech block.
- single action.
- may have; round or octagonal barrel; spur trigger or trigger guard.

Notes

Make

- "FLOBERT" is usually not marked on the firearm.
- "Flobert" name is derived from the name of the French gun smith Nicolas Flobert of Paris.
- Nicolas Auguste Flobert patented a primer-propelled cartridge circa 1845.
- the Flobert name is usually associated with single shot hand guns and long arms that fire the Flobert cartridge and are locked by nothing other than the nose of the hammer entering a radically pivoting breech block.

Model

- model designation is not marked on the firearm, but is rather a description of the action.
- this was the last and final improvement of the Flobert design where the breech block was attached to the breech end of the barrel, so it could be swung up and forward to open the action for loading and unloading.
- features typically include: checkered, straight or semi pistol grip, one piece walnut stock with prominent side flats; octagonal or round barrel, fixed rear and front sights; stylized trigger guard.

Action

- top hinged breech block design.

Serial Number

- serial number on an observed example was marked on the stock in front of the trigger guard and consisted of four numbers.

Notes

Make

- the make or logo thereof is marked on the firearm.

Model

- the model is not marked on the firearm.
- this is an unusual design of single-shot grenade launcher designed for use as either an emplaced point defence weapon (on a tripod or pintle), or a lightweight squad grenade launcher (on a bipod).
- this grenade launcher fires from an open bolt, and is cocked for the first shot by pulling rearwards on two folding side handles until the sear catches the bolt, and then grenades are inserted manually into the chamber thereafter, with recoil cocking the bolt for each following shot.
- features include: parkerized/anodized/phosphated finish; lightweight alloy construction; large multi-port muzzle brake; open adjustable ladder sights; folding cocking handles; pistol-grip and safety on the trigger mechanism; a triangular housing covering a swinging toggle below the tubular receiver; and a fixed wooden buttstock with a rubber recoil pad.

Manufacturer

- the manufacturer or logo thereof is marked on the firearm.

Action

- Blowback operated.

Serial Number

- numbered on the receiver/frame.

Notes

Make

- the make or logo thereof is marked on the firearm.

Model

- the model is marked on the firearm.
- this is an indigenously-designed 40mm grenade-launcher produced in two barrel lengths, and in both stand-alone and rifle-mounted under-barrel grenade-launcher configurations; unlike Floro's M203 grenade-launcher, this launcher uses a hinged receiver where the breech swings to the right, away from the chamber, allowing grenades to be loaded one at a time into the launcher.
- features include: round rifled barrel; open adjustable sights (may be mounted on the launcher, or on a host rifle); angular trigger-guard; breech that swings to the right to open; and may be seen with a CAR-15-style collapsible buttstock in the stand-alone version.

Manufacturer

- the manufacturer or logo thereof is marked on the firearm.

Action

- hinged-breech single-shot.

Serial Number

- numbered on the receiver/frame.

Notes

Make

- FN produced firearms for sale world-wide under their own "FN" trademark that were available in North America only as a "Browning Arms Company" product under the "Browning" trademark in keeping with the terms of their licencing agreement with John M. Browning and later, the Browning Arms Company.
- "FN" markings will usually be found on the receiver/frame and/or barrel, the "Browning" name will usually appear on the firearm to denote the use of John M Browning's design.

Model

- this entry is for the Auto-5 shotgun as manufactured by FN from 1904 to 1975/6 and sold in Europe under the FN name. The Auto-5 was also sold in North America under the "Browning" trade name.
- features throughout this models production run have included: round profile barrel; various fixed and removable chokes; plain barrel, ventilated rib or raised matted rib; metal bead front sight, also available with centre bead; solid top receiver/frame with right side ejection port and bottom loading port; action release button located on the right side of the receiver/frame; safety located ahead of the trigger guard (pre 1951) or cross-bolt safety on the rear of the trigger guard (1951-1975/6); with or without magazine cut-off lever (when so equipped the magazine cut-off lever is located on the left side of the receiver/frame; blued barrel and receiver/frame; plain or engraved receiver/frame; engraving was not available until circa 1910; checkered or smooth forearm and straight or pistol grip stock; available with sling loops.
- the Auto-5 came in various grades from Grade I to Grade IV. The guns differ only in engraving and wood quality from Standard model Auto-5's.

Manufacturer

- manufacturer's name may be found marked on the firearm in full, or as "FN Herstal", or as "Made in Belgium".
- the same design has also been produced in Japan by Miroku Firearms Manufacturing and in North America by Remington. Remington produced the Auto-5 for Browning as well as being licenced to produce this design for sale under the "Remington" trade name as the model "11".

Action

- recoil operated.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Serial Number

- serial number is usually marked on the underside, forward portion of the receiver/frame.
- serial number rationalization for FN production is as follows:
a) from 1904 to 1953, sequential numbers from 1 to below 500,000 (the exact number is not known as samples have been noted that contradict available reference material).
b) from 1954 to 1975/6, a letter prefix followed by a five digit number or a single or double number followed by a letter followed by a five digit number.
- Japanese (Miroku) production serial number rationalization is as follows: usually consists of ten characters; the first five are the numeric portion of the serial number which starts at 00001 each year and rises with production to 99999, the next five characters consist of a 2 letter code for the year and a three character code (usually three digits) which is the product code.
- Example No 1): - 00348NN161 = Browning Auto-5, Magnum 20 model, in 20 GA X 3", produced in 1999 in Japan by Miroku Firearms Manufacturing.
- Example No 2): - 01765NP151 = Browning Auto-5, Magnum 12 model in 12 GA X 3", produced in 1998 in Japan by Miroku Firearms Manufacturing.

Calibre

- the 16 GA was first offered in 2 9/16" length and later to 2 3/4".
- 20 GA X 2 3/4" calibre Auto-5 was introduced in 1958.
- 20 GA X 3" calibre Auto-5 was introduced in 1968.
- 12 GA X 3" calibre Auto-5 was introduced in 1958.

Shots

- for a short period of time between 1934 and 1938 a model with a two-shot magazine, known as the "Browning three-shot" model was manufactured, this variation may easily be identified by the short magazine tube and shorter forend.

Other Markings

- Belgian proof markings will usually be found on the barrel, receiver/frame and the breech mechanism on this and all other Belgian manufactured Brownings.
- firearms will not be marked "Browning Arms Company" with the appropriate addresses but will usually be marked "Fabrique Nationale, Herstal" and/or "Brownings Patent Depose".
- the engraving patterns may not be consistent with contemporary "Browning" models.

Notes

Make

- designed by Val A. Browning, John M Browning's son.
- the FN name is marked on the barrel, the only Browning markings on the sample examined was a barrel marking that read "Browning Patents".
- sold in North America under the Browning name.
- markings on firearms sold under the Browning name read; from 1952 to 1958 the Browning name is marked on the barrel as "BROWNING ARMS COMPANY ST. LOUIS, MO" . From 1959 through 1968 the markings read "BROWNING ARMS COMPANY ST LOUIS MO & MONTREAL P.Q.". From 1969 to the end of production the markings read "BROWNING ARMS COMPANY MORGAN UTAH & MONTREAL P.Q".

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Model

- manufactured between 1952 and 1971.
- the "Double Automatic" name may be marked on the butt plate.
- the name "Double Automatic" is derived from the fact that this firearm is designed to be loaded with one round in the chamber and one round in the "magazine" thereby giving it the capability of firing only two shots in succession.
- the Double Automatic line of shotguns was offered in three variations, the "Standard" Double Automatic used a steel receiver/frame (incorporates a "C" in the serial number), the Double Automatic Twelvette used a "hiduminium" aluminum alloy receiver/frame (available in different colours) and was advertised as a "12 Gauge that weighed less than a 16 gauge" and the Double Automatic Twentyweight which also used the hiduminium receiver/frame (black finish with gold filled engraving) but was even lighter. Shotguns produced with the hiduminium receiver/frame had an "A" in the serial number. All versions were only offered in 12 Gauge.
- this model does not have a conventional magazine tube, the cartridge is loaded through a port in the left side of the receiver/frame and is held on a lifter by spring tension. After the first shot is fired and the bolt has reached its maximum rearward position the next cartridge is lifted into place and chambered by the forward movement of the bolt.
- available in Trap or Skeet configuration.
- features include: blued finish; plain or ventilated rib barrel; ambidextrous sliding type safety located at the rear of the trigger guard; "speed loading" port located on the left side of the receiver/frame; right side ejection.

Manufacturer

- the manufacturer's name is marked on the firearm, the barrel is usually also marked "Made in Belgium".

Action

- recoil operated.

Serial Number

- found on the receiver/frame, incorporates a "C" in the serial number.
- total manufactured 67,000 in all variations.

Shots

- factory literature lists capacity as two shots: one in the "magazine", plus one in the chamber.

Notes

Make

- "FN HERSTAL BELGIUM" is marked on the firearm.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Model

- "FS2000" marked on the left side of the firearm.
- this is a gas operated, semi-automatic "bull-pup" design, rifle being marketed by FN as a new generation of police, military and commercial small arm; this firearm is meant to be easily adaptable to a number of different requirements and can have a wide variety of optional attachments.
- features include: modular "bull-pup" design; polymer stock; accessory rail; forward ejection of empty cases (this allows the rifle's use by left or right handed personnel); synthetic furniture with rubber bumpers at exposed corners; magazine release at bottom of pistol grip; safety/selector-switch is a rotating disc on the bottom bow of the trigger-guard; permanently attached muzzle-brake/flash-hider.
- overall length of 737mm (29").
- available in a full automatic version as the model F2000.

Manufacturer

- "FN HERSTAL BELGIUM" is marked on the firearm.

Action

- gas operated.

Serial Number

- rationalization unknown.
- marked on the left side of the firearm.

Calibre

- rifling characteristics: 6-grooves, 1 turn in 7 inches, right hand twist.
- "CAL. 5.56MM" may be marked on the left side of the receiver/frame.
- "223 Wylde" is a chamber design and not a calibre.
- Wylde chamber was designed by Bill Wylde for use with competition 223 Remington loads.
- Wylde chamber is designed to allow for the ability to shoot military 5.56 ammo, plus the ability to safely shoot .223 ammo with reliable extraction and match-like accuracy.
- Wylde chamber is an improvement on the SAAMI chamber that has traditionally been used in match rifles.
- Wylde chamber works with cartridges having an overall length of 2.445, as opposed to the SAAMI specifications of 2.410" for 223 Remington and 2.550" for 5.45x45mm NATO.

Shots

- detachable box magazine.
- utilizes AR-15/M16 magazines.

Notes

Make

- FN Browning is used as a make for pistols that were marketed under the Browning name in North America and the FN name throughout the rest of the world.
- these pistols were all manufactured by Fabrique Nationale, Herstal, Belgium and are so marked. Pistols destined for the North American market were marked Browning Arms Company, St Louis Missouri & Morgan Utah and Montreal P.Q.
- all of the firearms produced at FN and intended for the North American market were distributed by the Browning Arms Company (formed in the early 1950's) and are so marked.
- because pistols are marked with both names, and identified under both banners, FN Browning is used as the make to avoid confusion.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Model

- is also known as "Old Model".
- recoil spring is in a tunnel above barrel.
- later production models had a lanyard ring.
- striker fired, no external hammer.
- manufactured from 1900 to 1914, total production 724,500 examples.

Manufacturer

- the FN name and/or logo will be marked on the firearm.

Action

- blowback operated.

Serial Number

- serial number rationalization; the firearms are consecutively numbered commencing with number one and continuing to the end of production.
- observed specimens had no prefix or suffix.

Remarks

- Fremden Gerat System - from the first days of World War II, the Germans made the maximum use of almost every weapon that came into their possession. Firearms and equipment not of German origin, taken into service in the German Armed Forces during this time period were assigned a German designation and a numerical designation. This system was known as the Fremden Gerat System and consisted of a name and number followed by a lower case letter in brackets indicating the country of origin.
- Example; 9mm Pistole 640 (b) = the FN-Browning, model 1935 High Power pistol, as produced in Belgium.

Model

- this model is a scaled down version of the model 1903, but is striker fired instead of having an internal hammer.
- this model is also known as the model 1905, the Vest Pocket or the Baby. The name Baby was officially given to a later model that is similar to the 1906.
- this model is often confused with the FN-Browning "Baby" model. The Baby is a smaller and lighter version of this pistol. The receiver is lengthened and is flush with the slide at the front giving the Baby a square look to it. The baby also has no grip safety or slide lock lever.
- the first variation of this model had no slide lock/safety lever. A second variation appeared in 1908 at about serial number 100,000 that had a slide lock/safety lever.
- the "Triple Safety Model" moniker referred to the three seperate safety features, manual safety, grip safety and magazine safety.
- a total of approximately 1,086,133 were manufactured between 1906 and 1959.
- available with blue finish or nickel plated finish.
- this model was extensively copied by gunmakers in Spain as well as others.
- slide should bear the following marks, "FABRIQUE NATIONALE D'ARMES DE GUERRE HERSTAL BELGIQUE", with "BROWNING'S PATENT DEPOSE" below it.

Remarks

- Fremden Gerat System - from the first days of World War II, the Germans made the maximum use of almost every weapon that came into their possession. Firearms and equipment not of German origin, taken into service in the German Armed Forces during this time period were assigned a German designation and a numerical designation. This system was known as the Fremden Gerat System and consisted of a name and number followed by a lower case letter in brackets indicating the country of origin.
- Example; 9mm Pistole 640 (b) = the FN-Browning, model 1935 High Power pistol, as produced in Belgium.
