Notes

Make

- "KINTREK, INC." over "OWENSBORO, KY" is marked on the right rear side of the receiver/frame.

Model

- introduced in 1991 and discontinued in 1992.
- "KBP-1" is marked on the right rear side of the receiver/frame.
- KBP-1 has a black finish, A-2 sights, and a grip safety. Its main attraction is the "bullpup" aspect of the firearm, in which the chamber and barrel are seated in the bull-pup butt stock under the cheekplate. This design greatly reduces the overall length of the firearm. This feature was uncommon in non-military weapons in 1991.
- the A-2 sights are made of plastic and protrude some 2 inches above the barrel. The sights are extremely easy to damage. The manufacturer went out of business in 1992, and no replacement parts are available.
- the bull-pup stock is a synthetic single piece design with a plastic butt plate.
- the rifle has an internal firing pin block that is disengaged by depressing the grip safety.
- the ejection port is on the right side of the butt stock, and is covered by a hinged plastic mud guard. This feature restricts the firearm to strictly right-handed operation.
- the cocking lever is pulled toward the rear of the rifle. It has a very stiff pull, and is difficult to operate without a strong grip. The grip safety also acts as the action release to chamber the ammunition.
- the trigger block, safety device is located in the trigger housing at the front of the trigger which blocks the trigger in the rear position and releases it in the forward position.

Manufacturer

- "KINTREK, INC" over "OWENSBORO, KY" is marked on the right side of the receiver/frame.
- Kintrek, Incorporated was located in Owensboro, Kentucky, U.S.A.

Action

- blowback operated.

Serial Number

- serial number is marked on the right side of the receiver/frame.
- example observed with three numbers without a letter prefix or suffix.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Calibre	- ".22 LR" is marked on the right rear side of the receiver/frame.
Shots	- detachable box magazine.
Canadian Law Comments	- as it left the factory, this firearm is equipped with a "bull-pup" stock. The stock is subject to the definition of "Prohibited Device" in "Part IIII/Firearms and Other Weapons" of Section 84 of the Criminal Code of Canada. - when the "bull-pup" stock (prohibited device) is removed the firearm is correctly identified as a "Non Restricted Firearm".

Canadian Law Comments

- this firearm is normally Non-Restricted unless affected by the following conditions:

1) by combining a barrel from a licensed firearms manufacture that is less than 406mm (16.0") in length and a receiver/frame fitted with a pistol grip only, this firearm may be deemed a "handgun" and therefore "RESTRICTED" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (a) of the Criminal Code of Canada.
- "handgun" means a firearm that is designed, altered or intended to be aimed and fired by the action of one hand, whether or not it has been redesigned or subsequently altered to be aimed and fired by the action of both hands.

2) "a firearm that is designed or adapted to be fired when reduced to a length of less than 660 mm by folding, telescoping or otherwise" and therefore "Restricted" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (c) of the Criminal Code of Canada.

3) by combining a barrel that has been altered to less than 457mm (18.0") in length by a non-licensed firearms manufacturer (cottage industry, individual or gunsmith) regardless of whether the shotgun has a pistol grip or conventional stock, this firearm is "PROHIBITED" and subject to the definition of a "prohibited firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 of the Criminal Code of Canada.
- "prohibited firearm" means a firearm that is adapted from a rifle or shotgun, whether by sawing, cutting or any other alteration, and that, as so adapted,
(i) is less than 660 mm in length, or
(ii) is 660mm or greater in length and has a barrel less than 457 mm in length.

Firearm Reference Number (FRN): 144049
Make: Koksharov

Summary

Make:	Koksharov
Model:	AEK-971
Manufacturer:	Degtyarev
Level:	Manufacturer Specifications and Commercial Customization
Type:	Rifle
Action:	Full Automatic
Country of Manufacturer:	RUSSIA
Serial Numbering:	See Note
Legal Classification:	Prohibited

144049 - 1	5.45X39 RUSSIAN	30	420	Prohibited CC 84(1) "prohibited firearm" para. (c)	Manufacturer Specifications and Commercial Customization

Notes

Make

- the make is not marked on the firearm.
- the make is derived from the lead designer, Sergei Ivanovich Koksharov, who oversaw the development of this series of firearms.

Model

- the model is marked on the firearm.
- this is an unusual gas-operated rifle that uses what the designer coined as "balanced operation", and which was almost chosen as the winner during the Abakan trials to choose a replacement for the AK-74M rifle; this rifle is still in production, and has been adopted by some elements of the Russian military.
- this rifle uses a two-piece gas-piston design, whereby one-half of the gas system is used to drive the bolt and bolt carrier to the rear (to perform the actions of ejection and reloading), while the other half of the gas system (fitted with a heavy tungsten piston-head) is driven FORWARD, to balance out the recoil of the rearward-moving masses; this results in a rifle with remarkably little felt recoil, and which does not rise appreciably off the target. This same principle was adopted by Izhmash designers for the AK-107 and AK-108 rifles.
- versions of this rifle are built in 5.45x39mm (the AEK-971), in 5.56x45mm (the AEK-972) and in 7.62x39mm (the AEK-973).
- features include: matte black phosphated/parkerized finish; one of several types of multi-vent muzzle brakes; AK-style open adjustable sights (an AK-style sight-mounting rail is attached to the left side of the receiver for the attachment of various optical or night-sights); an extended gas piston to contain the forward-travelling gas piston; synthetic furniture; a hook-style bolt operating handle on the right side; a cross-ribbed top cover; an ambidextrous four-position safety/selector (safe, semi-automatic, three-round burst, and full automatic) above the pistol-grip, and a side-folding, frame buttstock. A version with a sliding collapsible buttstock has also been made as the AEK-971S.

Manufacturer

- the manufacturer or logo thereof is marked on the firearm.
- the V.A. Degtyarev Factory (Russian: "Zavod imeni Degtyareva", or "ZiD") is the current incarnation of a manufacturer that was originally set up in Kovrov, Russia, by Danish investors to produce Madsen machine guns for the Russian armed forces during World War One. After the factory was nationalized during the Russian Revolution, it became known as "Factory 2", and then the "Kirkizh Factory" (after a Communist leader who had died in 1927). During the 1950s, the factory was part of a conglomerate in the closed city of Kovrov known as the "Kovrov Mechanichevsky Zavod"/"Kovrov Mechanical Factory", but in 1993, the small arms and cannon component of that factory was reorganized into its own stand-alone manufacturer again, as the "Factory in the name of V.A. Degtyarev".

Action

- gas-operated.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Serial Number - serial number is marked on the receiver/frame, usually with two Cyrillic character prefixes.

Shots - detachable box magazine.

- this is an unusual gas-operated rifle that uses what the designer coined as "balanced operation", and which was almost chosen as the winner during the Abakan trials to choose a replacement for the AK-74M rifle; this rifle is still in production, and has been adopted by some elements of the Russian military.
- this rifle uses a two-piece gas-piston design, whereby one-half of the gas system is used to drive the bolt and bolt carrier to the rear (to perform the actions of ejection and reloading), while the other half of the gas system (fitted with a heavy tungsten piston-head) is driven FORWARD, to balance out the recoil of the rearward-moving masses; this results in a rifle with remarkably little felt recoil, and which does not rise appreciably off the target. This same principle was adopted by Izhmash designers for the AK-107 and AK-108 rifles.
- versions of this rifle are built in 5.45x39mm (the AEK-971), in 5.56x45mm (the AEK-972) and in 7.62x39mm (the AEK-973).
- features include: matte black phosphated/parkerized finish; one of several types of multi-vent muzzle brakes; AK-style open adjustable sights (an AK-style sight-mounting rail is attached to the left side of the receiver for the attachment of various optical or night-sights); an extended gas piston to contain the forward-travelling gas piston; synthetic furniture; a hook-style bolt operating handle on the right side; a cross-ribbed top cover; an ambidextrous four-position safety/selector (safe, semi-automatic, three-round burst, and full automatic) above the pistol-grip, and a side-folding, frame buttstock. A version with a sliding collapsible buttstock has also been made as the AEK-971S.

Manufacturer

Manufacturer

- the manufacturer or logo thereof is marked on the firearm.
- the V.A. Degtyarev Factory (Russian: "Zavod imeni Degtyareva", or "ZiD") is the current incarnation of a manufacturer that was originally set up in Kovrov, Russia, by Danish investors to produce Madsen machine guns for the Russian armed forces during World War One. After the factory was nationalized during the Russian Revolution, it became known as "Factory 2", and then the "Kirkizh Factory" (after a Communist leader who had died in 1927). During the 1950s, the factory was part of a conglomerate in the closed city of Kovrov known as the "Kovrov Mechanichevsky Zavod"/"Kovrov Mechanical Factory", but in 1993, the small arms and cannon component of that factory was reorganized into its own stand-alone manufacturer again, as the "Factory in the name of V.A. Degtyarev".

Notes

Make

- Kolb's trademark is the letter "K" inside a circle moulded into the grip plates.

Model

- "PATS. APRIL 5, 10" over "BABY HAMMERLESS" over "MODEL 1916" is marked on the top-strap.
- this is the initial "transition" model of the Kolb/Sedgely "Baby Hammerless", manufactured when Sedgely was refining the design of this revolver from Kolb's original design; the primary visual change is that the mainspring inside the grip was changed to a permanently-compressed coil spring, without a tension-adjustment screw on the front-strap.
- features include: blued or nickeled finish; fixed half-moon blade sight on an ovate barrel; underbarrel cylinder axis pin with three knurled bands, and retained by a spring-loaded "blade"-style catch built into the head of the cylinder axis pin; fluted six-shot cylinder; loading groove on the right side of the receiver/frame; enclosed hammer in a "humpback" receiver/frame; folding trigger; and black synthetic checkered grips with an "S" in a circle, on a square-butt grip-frame.

Manufacturer

- the manufacturer is not marked on the firearm; Henry M. Kolb originally manufactured these revolvers under the "Kolb" name, but sold the business to R.F. Sedgely in 1916, but Sedgely continued using the "Kolb" name until existing parts inventories were exhausted.

Action

- double-action revolver.

Serial Number

- serial-numbered on the right side of the grip-frame, underneath the grips.

Notes

Make

- maker's name not usually found on the firearm.
- make is not marked on the firearm except in the form of initials ("KA") in the preface to the serial number.

Model

- "PARAMAX" was observed marked on the left sides of the forward portion of the trigger/grip frame assembly.
- features include: round barrel, removable by means of a knurled nut located around the muzzle end of the barrel just in front sight; tubular steel upper receiver/frame with upper right side ejection port; cocking handle is mounted on the left side of the receiver/frame; two peace bolt assembly has no safety position available for locking the cocking handle to the rear; extractor claw mounted on the bolt and the ejector is mounted in the trigger/grip frame assembly ; bolt body envelops/surrounds the barrel assembly, uses a fixed firing pin and has a bolt face which fully supports the cartridge rim.
- safety selector lever F and S is mounted on the right side of the trigger/grip frame assembly just above the trigger; stamped metal sight guards;
- metal tabs located at the front and rear of the stamped steel lower trigger grip frame assembly are used to lock the barrel and receiver to the grip/frame assembly by means of the barrel nut and a large knurled end cap is used at the rear.
- sliding wire stock; magazine housing is part of the grip;one piece grip panel; the heel of the grip has a thumb size cut out for the magazine release.

Manufacturer

- make is not marked on the firearm except in the form of initials ("KA") in the preface to the serial number.
- "78 KA" may be marked on the top of the receiver/tube this is the year of manufacturer "78" and the company initials "K A"

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Action	- blow back operated.
Serial Number	- located on upper rear body. - consists of 2 digit year of manufacture, 2 letters, then 6 digit number; observed example reads: 78KAxxxxxx.
Calibre	- "CAL 9MM P" was observed marked on the top of the receiver/tube just forward of the rear sight.
Shots	- detachable box magazine. - magazines are compatible with the Uzi series of submachine guns.
Other Markings	- under the forearm grip "DUMAK" and "IHB" were observed. - when found with proof mark that denotes the antlers of a Springbok (South African Antelope) with the letter " T " in the middle, on the bolt, barrel and on the receiver/frame this is believed to be a South African proof mark and that the firearm was manufactured in South Africa - the letter "P" inside a triangle is found stamped on the bolt, barrel and on the receiver/frame this is believed to be a Rhodesian proof mark and that the firearm was manufactured in Salisbury Rhodesia. - the serial number maybe repeated on the bolt and barrel. - British proof marks were observed marked on the top of the receiver/frame, bolt and at the muzzle end of the barrel. - British proof marks only mean this firearm was at one time proofed in England for import/export.

Notes

Make

- "Krag-Jorgenen" is not marked on the firearm.
- "Krag-Jorgensen" is derived from the last names of the two Norweigian inventors of this firearm: Captain Ole Hermann Johannes Krag, and Erik Jorgensen.

Model

- the model designation does not appear on the firearm (however the original model designation "Model 1898" appears on the left side of the receiver).

Manufacturer

- the manufacturer's name appears on the left side of the receiver.

Action

- turn-bolt design.

Serial Number

- appears on the left side of the receiver.

Shots

- integral pan magazine.
- magazine's hinged cover is located on the right side of the receiver/frame below the bolt, cartridges are fed horizontally into the internal pan magazine.
- Krag-Jorgensen Danish magazine loading cover has a checkered knob on the top rear surface and is hinged at the front and swings out and forward.
- Krag-Jorgensen Norwegian and U.S. magazine loading cover is hinged at the bottom and swings out and down.

Remarks

- This carbine is a modification of the Model 1898 rifle to carbine configuration specifically for sale by the Director of Civilian Marksmanship to members of the American National Rifle Association. Conversions were carried out at the Benicia Arsenal between 1928 and 1931 and are generally identifiable by high quality work and the presence of a 1903 Springfield front sight. Many similar carbines were assembled from surplus parts in the 1930's by commerical arms dealers and these are easily mistaken for genuine N.R.A. carbines.

Notes

Make

- "KRAL ARMS" is marked on the right side of the receiver/frame.

Model

- "Kr22 TAC" is marked on the right side of the upper receiver/frame.
- "KR22 TAC" is a "KR22" in a synthetic chassis with a pistol grip and a folding stock.
- Features include: Threaded muzzle with thread protector; synthetic accessory rail handguard; synthetic, split receiver/frame with takedown pins; raised top accessory rail above the upper receiver; reciprocating charging handle on left or right side of the bolt; angular trigger guard; skeletonized, flat trigger; ambidextrous rotary safety selector on the lower receiver; magazine release lever in front of the trigger guard; AR-15 pattern interchangeable pistol grip; skeletonized left side folding stock; QD sling mounts.
- Features may include: Flash hider; folding front and rear iron sights; multiple colored finish.
- Overall length with a 475 mm (18.7 inches) barrel is 670 mm (26.4 inches) with the stock collapsed, average weight is 2.1 kg (4.6 lbs).

Manufacturer

- "KRAL ARMS" is marked on the right side of the receiver/frame.

Action

- Blowback operated.

Serial Number

- The serial number is marked on a metal insert on the left side of the upper receiver/frame.
- The serial number is repeated on other parts and components.

Barrel

- The barrel length does not include any attached device such as flash-hider or muzzle brake.

Calibre

- The calibre designation is marked on the bolt, visible through the ejection port.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Shots

- Detachable box magazine.
- Designed to accept "Ruger 10/22" type magazines.

Canadian Law Comments

- This firearm design incorporates a split receiver/frame: the upper receiver is the master component for the receiver/frame for all purposes of the Criminal Code and the Firearms Act.
- Ruger "BX-25" magazine is interchangeable between the Ruger model 10/22 and SR22 rifles and Ruger 22 Charger handgun configurations and is considered a "handgun" magazine. Because handguns are limited to a ten shot magazine capacity in accordance with the Criminal Code Part III, S. 84, Regulations Part 4 Para 3. (1) (b) "The Former Cartridge Magazine Control Regulations", this limits the magazine capacity for the rifle configuration to ten (10) shots, despite the firearm being designed to use rimfire ammunition.

Canadian Law Comments

- this firearm is normally Non-Restricted unless affected by the following conditions:

1) by combining a barrel from a licensed firearms manufacture that is less than 406mm (16.0") in length and a receiver/frame fitted with a pistol grip only, this firearm may be deemed a "handgun" and therefore "RESTRICTED" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (a) of the Criminal Code of Canada.
- "handgun" means a firearm that is designed, altered or intended to be aimed and fired by the action of one hand, whether or not it has been redesigned or subsequently altered to be aimed and fired by the action of both hands.

2) "a firearm that is designed or adapted to be fired when reduced to a length of less than 660 mm by folding, telescoping or otherwise" and therefore "Restricted" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (c) of the Criminal Code of Canada.

3) by combining a barrel that has been altered to less than 457mm (18.0") in length by a non-licensed firearms manufacturer (cottage industry, individual or gunsmith) regardless of whether the shotgun has a pistol grip or conventional stock, this firearm is "PROHIBITED" and subject to the definition of a "prohibited firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 of the Criminal Code of Canada.
- "prohibited firearm" means a firearm that is adapted from a rifle or shotgun, whether by sawing, cutting or any other alteration, and that, as so adapted,
(i) is less than 660 mm in length, or
(ii) is 660mm or greater in length and has a barrel less than 457 mm in length.

Canadian Law Comments

- Discharges a projectile at a muzzle velocity exceeding 152.4 mps and a muzzle energy exceeding 5.7 Joules.
- This firearm may have left the factory equipped with a sound suppressor/silencer. The sound suppressor is subject to the definition of "Prohibited Device" in Section 84, Part III (Firearms and Other Weapons) of the Criminal Code of Canada.

If the complete sound suppressor/silencer (prohibited device) is removed, the firearm is correctly identified as a "Non-Restricted Firearm". NOTE: removal of the internal components of the sound suppressor/silencer (prohibited device) is not sufficient to mitigate a prohibited classification. All components of the sound suppressor/silencer, including the device body, end caps, mounting hardware, all internal parts (baffles, screens, spacers, wipes, etc.), must be removed.

Shots

- this rifle utilises a detachable box magazine holding 5 rounds.

Remarks

- This is a small-bore target rifle introduced in 1983 that relies on electricity rather than percussion to ignite a cartridge in the chamber; the rifle is powered by two 9-volt batteries, which, after the butt-stock power-switch is turned on, charge a capacitor. That capacitor then discharges through the chambered case-head when the trigger (actually a microswitch) is pulled, to ignite the priming compound and fire the cartridge.

- "KRICO" is marked on the firearm.
- "KRICO" is a trade name used by "A. Kriegeskorte GmbH / Kriegeskorte & Company" on spring-air guns since 1948 and on cartridge firearms since the mid 1950s.
- the "KRICO" trade name is derived from the first three letters in "KRIegeskorte" and the first two letters in "COmpany".

Model

- This rifle is a slightly-modified version of the 360 S Biathlon rifle, which allows the firer to work the action merely by rocking the grip back and forth; this retracts the bolt to eject the fired case, and a new cartridge is fed into the chamber when pressure is released.

Manufacturer

- "Kriegeskorte & Company GmbH" is a distributor and manufacturer, which was originally founded in Stuttgart-Hedelfingen, Germany in 1947.
- "Kriegeskorte & Company" has been known as "A. Kriegeskorte GmbH", "Sportwaffenfabrik Kriegeskorte Gmbh", "Krico Werke", "Krico GmbH", or "Kriegeskorte Handels GmbH".

- "Kriegeskorte" was located in Vohburg-Irsching, Germany from 1996 to 1999.
- "Kriegeskorte" moved to Pyrbaum, Germany in 1999.

Action

- based on a straight-pull bolt-action design, but operated by squeezing the rifle's grip to open and close the breech.

Shots

- this rifle utilises a detachable box magazine holding 5 rounds; extra magazines are stored in butt-stock.

Notes

Model

- An O/U pattern double rifle made in a wide variety of calibres and options such as set and double triggers, multiple calibres and multiple barrel sets, etc; there is a possibility that these firearms will accept shotgun barrels, as well as rifle barrels. This rifle is also made in a "Classic Big Bore" version, meant for hunting African or dangerous game.

Manufacturer

- Ulm, Germany. This factory was located in Suhl until shortly after WW2, when it moved to the city of Ulm, and it has produced firearms as both the "Shotguns of Ulm", and as the "Heinrich Krieghoff Gun Company". Either of these markings may be seen on their firearms.

Action

- over/under pattern.

Calibre

- other calibres or combinations of calibres likely; some of these rifles were made with one calibre in the upper barrel, and another in the lower barrel.

Notes

Model

- a multiple-barreled firearm that combines a side by side shotgun with a single-barreled rifle; in most patterns, the rifle barrel is mounted below and between the shotgun barrels. There have also been auxiliary barrels made for these firearms that allow the owner to fire .22 rimfire cartridges from one of the shotgun barrels.
- made in a wide variety of gauge/calibre combinations.
- available in several grades, with the differences being the quality of wood and the amount and style of engraving used.

Manufacturer

- "Krieghoff" is usually marked on the receiver/frame and/or barrel.

Action

- hinged barrel design.
- barrel assembly consists of three barrels: one rifled barrel and two smoothbore barrels or two rifled barrels and one smoothbore barrel.

Calibre

- other gauge/calibre combinations likely, but not listed in reference.

Notes

Model	- A drilling made by Krieghoff specifically for import into the U.S. by the Europa Corporation; this firearm has two shotgun barrels over a rifle barrel, with selector and safety on the tang.
Manufacturer	- Ulm, Germany. This factory was located in Suhl until shortly after WW2, when it moved to the city of Ulm, and it has produced firearms as both the "Shotguns of Ulm", and as the "Heinrich Krieghoff Gun Company". Either of these markings may be seen on their firearms.
Action	- 3 barrels.
Calibre	- other gauge/calibre combinations likely, but not listed in reference.

Notes

Make	- firearms have been produced both as brand name/MAKE "Shotguns of Ulm", and as MAKE "Krieghoff". - products of Krieghoff may be found marked either as "Krieghoff" or "Shotguns of Ulm". - "KRIEGHOFF GmbH ULM W.GERMANY" may be marked on the underside of the receiver/frame.
Model	- this is a generic entry for the Krieghoff K-80 series of shotguns. Other "K-80" entries exist which might better describe the firearm being examined. - an O/U shotgun made with a wide variety of factory options and extra barrels available. Some versions of this firearm come with multiple barrel sets (both O/U and single-barrel) for use on the same receiver/frame. - this firearm is essentially a Remington Model 32, manufactured by Krieghoff. NOTE: some of these firearms are fitted with release triggers. - features include: European walnut stock, checkered pistol grip and forearm, blued ventilated barrels or carrier barrel, selective trigger, barrel selector in front of the trigger, blued or coin finish receiver/frame with light to rich engraving, may have gold inlays, bead front sight, and ventilated or plain recoil pad. - available in versions: Pigeon, Skeet, Trap, Single Barrel Trap, Unsingle Trap, and Sporting Clays.
Manufacturer	- this factory was located in Suhl until shortly after World War II, when it moved to the city of Ulm. - it has produced firearms as both the "Shotguns of Ulm", and as the "Heinrich Krieghoff Gun Company". Either of these markings may be seen on their firearms.
Action	- over/under pattern.
Serial Number	- serial number rationalization unknown. - observed specimen consisted of five digits without prefix or suffix.
Calibre	- it must be noted that a "carrier barrel" system is available for sub-calibre inserts. - these carrier barrels are designed to accept sub-gauge skeet tubes for 20, 28 and 410GA calibre; carrier barrels are not designed nor intended to be capable of chambering and firing 12 GA cartridges and are marked as such.
Canadian Law Comments	- this firearm may be purchased equipped with only a carrier barrel unit; therefore, for the purpose of registration the calibre of the sub-gauge skeet tubes may be submitted as part of a barrel-shot-calibre combination for registration.

Notes

Model

- An unusual single-barrel trap gun that is based on the Model 32, but fires only from the lower position in the action; this is opposed to the K-80 Single Barrel Trap, which fires from the top position. The upper "barrel" in the Unisingle is actually a plugged dummy barrel that ends at the front of the forearm; interchangeable choke tubes are a factory option, and some of these firearms are fitted with release triggers.

Manufacturer

- Ulm, Germany. This factory was located in Suhl until shortly after WW2, when it moved to the city of Ulm, and it has produced firearms as both the "Shotguns of Ulm", and as the "Heinrich Krieghoff Gun Company". Either of these markings may be seen on their firearms.

Action

- uses the same basic action as the other K-80 guns, but only the lower lockwork functions.

Serial Number

- serial no. inside action well.

Notes

Make

- "KRIEGHOFF" is marked on the bottom of the receiver/frame.

Model

- introduced in 2002.
- "OPTIMA" is usually marked on the bottom of the receiver/frame.
- this is a three-barreled combination gun of the type known to the Germans as a "drilling"; this firearm may be seen with two rifle barrels over a shot barrel, two shot barrels over a rifle barrel, or with barrel/chamber inserts to convert a shotgun barrel to another rifle calibre.
- features include: a walnut pistol-grip stock and forearm with schnabel tip, "hogs-back" comb, and Bavarian cheek-piece; double triggers; a tang safety/selector/cocker; open folding sights; a quarter-rib with mounts for a quick-detachable telescopic sight; and the customer's choice of engraving styles and amounts.
- this firearm is available in both box-lock and side-lock formats and in a forged steel or alloy receiver/frame.

Manufacturer

- "KRIEGHOFF" is marked on the bottom of the receiver/frame.

Action

- three-barreled firearm; this firearm may be seen with two rifle barrels over a shot barrel (a "doppelbuchsedrilling"), with two shot barrels over a rifle barrel (a "doppelflintendrilling"), and with insert barrels to convert a shot barrel to an another (usually small-calibre rifle) cartridge.

Serial Number

- serial number is marked on the receiver/frame.

Calibre

- calibre is usually marked on the barrel assembly at the locking lugs.
- a variety of calibre/gauge/barrel options are available on request.

Notes

Make

- "KRIEGHOFF" was observed marked on the underside of the receiver/frame.

Model

- "PLUS" was observed marked on the underside of the receiver/frame.
- manufactured from 1988 to 2004.
- multiple barreled firearm that combines a S/S shotgun with a single barreled rifle; in most patterns, the rifle barrel is mounted below and between the shotgun barrels.
- there have also been auxiliary barrels made for these firearms that allow the owner to fire .22 rimfire cartridges from one of the shotgun barrels. These have been made in a wide variety of gauge/calibre combinations. Those marked "Dural" are made with an aluminium alloy receiver/frame.
- these firearms are available in several grades, with the differences being the quality of wood and the amount and style of engraving used.

Manufacturer

- located in Ulm, Germany. This factory was located in Suhl until shortly after World War II, when it moved to the city of Ulm, and it has produced firearms as both the "Shotguns of Ulm", and as the "Heinrich Krieghoff Gun Company". Either of these markings may be seen on their firearms.

Type

- usually two smooth bore barrels over a rifled barrel.

Action

- multi-barrel.

Notes

Make

- "KRIEGHOFF" is usually marked on the bottom of the receiver/frame.

Model

- model designation is not marked on the firearm.
- introduced in 1988.
- this is a modernized version of the three barrel combination rifle/shotgun, available with a wide range of options such as stock type, wood quality, amount and style of engraving, extended false sideplates, etc.
- standard form is a boxlock, drilling, combination gun (two 20 GA X 3" shotgun barrels over a rifle barrel), with "hog's-back"-type Bavarian pistol-grip stock, tang safety/cocker/barrel selector, folding rear sight, double triggers, sling swivels, short schnabel-tipped forearm or full-length Mannlicher-style forearm.
- Krieghoff makes this firearm with both steel and duraluminum(Dural) receiver/frames and with the "Thermo TS Stabil" free floating barrel system.

Manufacturer

- manufacturer's designation is marked on the receiver/frame.

Action

- "drilling" pattern; two side by side shotgun barrels over a rifle barrel.

Serial Number

- marked on the receiver/frame.

Barrel

- barrels also available in 550mm, 600mm, 635mm and 680mm lengths.

Calibre

- this firearm is available in any combination of 20 GA X 3" (both upper barrels) and 222 REM, 5.6X50R MAG, 22 SAVAGE HP, 6.5X57, 6.5X57R, 6.5X65R, 7X57, 7X57R, 7X64, 7X65R, 308 WIN, 30-06 SPRG, 30R BLASER, 8X57JRS, 8X75RS, or 9.3X74R. Additionally, the factory can supply insert barrels ("einstecklauf") to temporarily convert one of the shotgun barrels to a minor-calibre rifle barrel, such as 22 HORNET.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Model	- model may be marked on the firearm. - introduced in 2007. - this unique design incorporates an in-line action whereby the forend and barrel assembly are drawn forward to begin the action cycle and pulled back to chamber a round. The external, thumb operated "Combi-Cocking Device" is then pushed forward to cock the action. - features include: ramp front sight with fibre optic insert and adjustable rear sight; blued barrel and nickel finished receiver/frame; lever actuated takedown system; adjustable trigger; checkered, pistol grip stock with or without cheek piece; sling swivels; rubber recoil pad. - calibre changes can be accomplished by switching barrels thus using a common receiver/frame. Changes between magnum and standard calibres requires a new bolt head and magazine.
Manufacturer	- "KRIEGHOFF" is marked on the firearm.
Action	- in-line, pull forward design.
Shots	- detachable box magazine.

Notes

Model

- "Waldschutz" drilling has the barrel selector on the tang and the safety on the left side of the stock above the trigger-guard. All barrels cock on opening.
- this is a multiple-barreled firearm that combines a SxS shotgun with a single-barreled rifle; in most patterns, the rifle barrel is mounted below and between the shotgun barrels. There have also been auxiliary barrels made for these firearms that allow the owner to fire .22 rimfire cartridges from one of the shotgun barrels. These have been made in a wide variety of gauge/calibre combinations. Those marked "Dural" are made with an aluminium-alloy receiver. These firearms are available in several grades, with the differences being the quality of wood and the amount and style of engraving used.

Manufacturer

- Krieghoff's factory was located in Suhl until shortly after WW2, when it moved to the city of Ulm.
- Krieghoff has produced firearms as both the "Shotguns of Ulm", and as the "Heinrich Krieghoff Gun Company". Either of these markings may be seen on their firearms.

Canadian Law Comments

- The ten round limit specified in the cartridge magazine control regulations applies to magazines for this firearm provided:

a) the magazine is originally designed or manufactured for use in a semi-automatic handgun, and

b) the handgun is commonly available in Canada.
- This firearm model is manufactured in both rifle and handgun configurations. The magazine is interchangeable between the two configurations and is considered a handgun magazine. Handguns are limited to a ten shot magazine capacity in accordance with the Former Cartridge Magazine Control Regulations (CC84(4) Sec. 3, Para. 1(b)). This limits the magazine capacity for the rifle configuration to ten (10) shots, despite the firearm being designed to use rimfire ammunition.
- In the case of this firearm, it has been determined that the component commonly referred to as the lower receiver assembly, into which the barrel is mounted and which contains the breech mechanism and upon which the manufacturer's identification, model identification, and the full serial number is marked, is the receiver/frame for the purposes stated within the Firearms Act and the Criminal Code of Canada.
- Kriss Vector 22 CRB receiver/frame is a modular assembly of light metal sheet pressings/stampings consisting of a right side plate part number KA09801U and a left side plate (the serial numbered component) part number KA09802U. These two master components may be assembled into a frame assembly containing multiple additional parts or components. The serial number on the receiver/frame is visible through a port in the polymer trigger mechanism housing on the lower left side to the rear of the magazine well.

Notes

Make

- "KYNOCH GUN FACTORY ASTON" is marked on the top of the barrel.

Model

- "PATENT MODEL" is marked on the top strap.
- manufactured between 1888 and 1893.
- this revolver was patented by Henry Schlund in 1885 with an additional patent issued to him in 1886 (No. 11,900) for an improved revolver.
- the Schlund patent of 1885 had the cocking trigger located below the trigger guard and the patent of 1886 had both triggers inside the trigger guard.
- trigger mechanism is unusual in that pulling the lower of the two triggers cocks a concealed hammer, then pulling the upper trigger releases the action to fire.
- features include: round barrel, hinged receiver/frame with break open lever that looks like a hammer spur, automatic ejection, hammerless (concealed hammer), blade front sight, grooved rear sight, round grip and a lanyard ring.

Manufacturer

- manufacturer's designation is marked on the top of the barrel.

Action

- this is a top break hammerless revolver.

Notes

Make

- "LAHTI" is not marked on the firearm.
- "Lahti" is derived from the last name of the Finnish inventor Aimo Johannes Lahti (1896 - 1970).

Model

- model does not appear on firearm.
- introduced in 1940.
- approximately 83,950 pistols were made before production stopped in 1946.
- similar in appearance to the Lahti model "L-35", but the trigger guard is more squared and has a barrel with a hexagonal shape at the breech.
- the grip plates will normally carry the "crowned" letter "H" emblem.
- Sweden had adopted the German made "P38" pistol in 1939, with the outbreak of the Second World War these were no longer available. The Finnish "Lahti" pistol was substituted in its place. Demands were too great for the original manufacturer (VKT of Finland) so a licence was granted to produce this model in Sweden.

Manufacturer

- the manufacturer's name is marked on the left side of the slide.
- originally licenced to "Svenska Automatvapen AB" for manufacture, but this firm liquidated before production began. The contract was then given to "Husqvarna Vapenfabrik AB" who produced this model until 1946.

Serial Number

- serial number on left side of receiver over grip.

Shots

- detachable box magazine.
