Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Model	- "Buckhunter In-Line Pistol" or a variation thereof is marked on the barrel. - model series introduced in 1995. - muzzleloading in-line percussion, removeable breech plug, thumb actuated safety mounted on left rear of receiver above left grip plate, ramrod under barrel. - available in blued steel or "C-Nickel" satin finish, walnut or black "All-Weather" finish hardwood stock. - one model version is available with 12-1/2"/318mm fluted barrel in C-Nickel satin finish with removeable muzzle break; note; overall length of this barrel with muzzle break attached is 14-3/4"/375mm - while this is the "advertised" barrel length it is not the correct length for Registration purposes - the 12-1/2"/318mm barrel length is the correct measurement.
Manufacturer	- "ARDESA" is usually not marked on the firearm. - "MADE IN SPAIN" is usually marked on the side of the barrel. - Ardesa was established in the 1980s. - Ardesa is a manufacturer located in Vizcaya, Spain. - Ardesa specializes in producing black powder / muzzle-loading firearms.
Action	- muzzle loader.
Serial Number	- serial number is marked on the firearm. - Spanish firearms manufactured pre-1995, the serial number consisted of numbers with or without a letter prefix or suffix. - Spanish firearms manufactured post-1994, the serial number consists of a two number gunmaker's/manufacture's code, a dash (-), a two number weapon's code, a dash (-), six numbers, a dash (-) and a two number year of production code. example: 14-13-087250-02.
Barrel	- this pistol is available with a fluted C-Nickel satin finish barrel which has a screw-on muzzle break attached -- note-- the barrel length for this version of the Buckhunter is advertised as being 14-3/4"/375mm long, this is not correct for Registration purposes; per Traditions, this barrel is in fact the standard 12-1/2"/318mm barrel externally threaded to accept the muzzle break.
Calibre	- calibre designation is marked on the barrel.

Notes

Make

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

Model

- manufactured prior to 1886.
- this is one of the first solid top receiver/frame cartridge loading revolvers built by William Tranter.
- this model was available with a single action or double action trigger mechanism.
- the double action trigger mechanism is covered by his British patents 2067 of 1862 and 1862 of 1863, and can be distinguished by the presence of a small "tooth" at the rear of the trigger. This tooth passes through a slot at the rear of the triggerguard to disengage the primary sear. (Earlier single trigger Tranter double actions used a lever projecting from the rear of the triggerguard frame to accomplish the same thing.)
- Note: Later Tranters also exhibit this "tooth" on occasion, particularly the military patterns. The early Tranters to which this record applies will have swing-out ejector rods that are stored in the cylinder pin, irregularly shaped sideplates retained by the hammer axis pin, and a cylinder pin that is retained by a spring loaded, frame mounted latch. The later military pattern Tranters will almost invariably have ejector rods mounted in a housing attached to the barrel, in the same manner as a Colt Single Action Army.
- these revolvers consistently exhibit octagonal barrels, grips with a rearward tang high on the backstrap, and "W. TRANTER'S PATENT" stamped in an oval on the receiver/frame.

Manufacturer

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

Notes

Make

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

Model

- manufactured prior to 1886.
- this is a double action solid frame revolver based on William Tranter's 1878 patent for several improvements to a double action trigger mechanism.
- features include: loading gate milled into right side of receiver/frame, tang high on backstrap, high hammer spur, sighting groove milled along topstrap, octagonal barrel, and manually-operated ejector-rod mounted in a shroud along the barrel (in the manner of the Colt Single Action Army).
- these revolvers saw official use in the British armed forces between 1879 and 1887, when it was replaced by the Webley. Therefore, these revolvers may quite often be seen with the British "broad arrow" acceptance mark stamped into the frame. Revolvers later sold back out of service were "de-militarized" by stamping an opposing arrow point-to-point with the first arrow.
- Do not confuse these revolvers with Tranter's 1879 Double Action Top Break revolvers, which use a similar trigger mechanism, but have a Webley style frame latch and break open for simultaneous ejection of empty cases.

Manufacturer

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

Serial Number

- serial number is usually marked on the right side of the receiver/frame, close to the "W. Tranter's Patent".
- serial number range is from 1 up to approximately 4,000.
- NOTE: "N80Z" is marked on the left side of the receiver/frame of those Tranter model 1878 Double Action revolvers issued to the New Zealand Armed Constabulary in 1880.

Notes

Make

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

Model

- manufactured prior to 1886.
- this is a single trigger double action top break revolver built by William Tranter.
- this particular single trigger double action design is covered in his UK patent of 1879, and can be distinguished by the presence of a small lever projecting through the rear of the triggerguard; this lever trips the hammer when the trigger is pulled to full draw. Though Tranter himself had passed over this method of tripping the hammer in favour of a "tooth" on the rear of the trigger in some of his earlier solid frame designs, the narrowness of the triggerguard in some of his of top break revolvers necessitated a return to a sear lever mounted in the frame.
- these revolvers consistently exhibit octagonal barrels, Webley style top latches, and "TRANTER'S PATENT" stamped in an oval on the receiver/frame.

Notes

Make

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

Model

- manufactured prior to 1886.
- model name does not appear on the firearm.
- double action, solid frame.
- cylinder axis pin is removeable by means of a spring-loaded cylinder-release pin usually located at left front of receiver in front the cylinder.
- cylinder usually unfluted with locking notches at rear.
- hinged loading gate located on right side of receiver at standing breech.
- right side of receiver has a machined loading slot located directly behind the loading gate.
- octagonal barrel.
- grip frame usually has a distinctive hump-type configuration behind the hammer.
- hardwood grip plates.
- research literature suggests that this type of double action revolver marked with "Tranter's Patent" varied widely in fit, finish and appearance which would seem to indicate production by manufacturers other than Tranter.

Manufacturer

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

Serial Number

- observed examples have had four digit numbers without prefix or suffix.

Calibre

- calibre may be marked on left side of barrel; known example marked ".380".

Notes

Make

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.
- William Tranter's manufacturing business ceased operations in 1885 on the retirement of William Tranter.
- William Tranter died in 1890.
- William Tranter manufactured rifles, shotguns, and handguns, and his patents covered so many improvements that his designs were licensed to many other manufacturers of the time. Therefore, the marking "Tranter's Patent" can not be considered definitive proof that the firearm in question was actually built by Tranter. On the other hand, Tranter himself built many firearms for retail sale through other distributors, and marked those firearms with "Tranter's Patent" and with the name of the intended retailer who can easily be mistaken as the manufacturer.
- distributor's name could be stamped on top of the barrel. In the case of one particular pistol this vendors name appears as: "J Blissett & Son, High High Holborn, London".

Model

- manufactured prior to 1886.
- single-action trigger mechanism.
- sheath trigger
- the frame, barrel and grip are a one-piece forging.
- the cylinder is not fluted

Manufacturer

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

Model

- manufactured prior to 1886.
- features include: octagonal barrel; solid receiver/frame; spur trigger; right side loading gate; no ejector; wood grips; finishes vary widely.
- unloading was usually accomplished by removing the cylinder and pushing out the cartridge cases with a rod.
- Tranter's Breech Loading Patent No 1 sheath trigger pocket revolver was retailed by: Cogswell & Harrison of London, T. Williams of Liverpool, and S. Grant of St. James's Street, London.

Manufacturer

- "Tranter's Patent" or "W. Tranter's Patent" is marked on the side of the receiver/frame.

Remarks

- As all Tranter rimfire revolvers in calibres larger than .22, were made prior to 1898, they are classed as Antiques. If a Tranter rimfire revolver's specification are not an exact match to this FRT entry, it is still acceptable to declare it an antique.

Notes

Make

- "TRANTER BROS" is marked on the top of the firearm followed by "18 SAND ST. BIRMINGHAM".
- "Tranter Brothers" business was formed by Tranter, Musgrove Thomas and Tranter Walter in the circa 1900's.
- "Tranter Brothers" were located at 18 Sand Street, Birmingham between 1900-1918.
- "Tranter Brothers" were located at 132 Steelhouse Lane from 1919-1933.
- "Tranter Brothers" were located at 132a Steelhouse Lane from 1934-1956.
- Tranter, Musgrove Thomas and Tranter Walter are brothers and the nephews of Tranter, William.
- Tranter, Musgrove Thomas was an breech loading gun action maker located in Dean's Bldgs on Weaman Street from 1890-1894.
- Tranter, Musgrove Thomas was located at 16 Weaman Street in 1897.
- Tranter, Walter was a gun and revolver maker located at 31 1/2 Whittall Street from 1896-1899.
- there is mention of possibly another brother named Tranter, Alfred William, but no references were found associated with gunmaking.

Model

- model designation is not marked on the firearm.
- this is a standard top break double action model similar to the 1879 Double Action Top Break produced by William Tranter with the presence of a small lever projecting through the rear of the trigger guard; this lever trips the hammer when the trigger is pulled to full draw. Though Tranter himself had passed over this method of tripping the hammer in favour of a "tooth" on the rear of the trigger in some of his earlier solid frame designs, the narrowness of the trigger guard in some of his of top break revolvers necessitated a return to a sear lever mounted in the frame.
- features include: round barrel with top barrel rib and sloping triangle fixed front sight; front hinged receiver/frame; spur hammer; top break release on the right hand side; lever at the rear of the trigger guard to release the hammer; wood checked "bird's head" pistol grip.

Make	- "Tripp Research Inc. Austin Texas" is marked on the bottom of the dustcover.
Model	- during the production run of this model it was referred to by several different names, no actual model designation was given until late into production. As such all variations are encompassed by this model designation. - "2011" may appear on the right side of the receiver/frame. Most production did not have a model designation marked on the firearm. Also referred to as the "High Capacity Modular" system. - was sold in 1992 as a receiver/frame only. - production of complete firearms began in 1993 and ended in early 1994. - the 2011 uses a modular receiver/frame which is derived from the Colt 1911/1911A1 receiver/frame. - features include: stainless grip safety, steel or aluminum receiver/frame with standard dustcover, synthetic trigger, squared trigger guard, adjustable open sights or no sights, available with or without screw-on or integral compensator, blued finish or hard chrome finish, and polymer grip assembly. - features may vary widely as this model is frequently customized for competitive shooters.
Manufacturer	- Tripp Research Incorporated (TRI) made receiver/frames will be marked "Tripp Research Inc, Austin, Texas" on the bottom of the dustcover and may have "TRI" marked on the grip frame.
Action	- recoil operated.
Serial Number	- serial number is marked on the right side of the receiver/frame. - the firearms marketed by Chip McCormack Corporation incorporate an "SF" or "SS" serial number prefix.
Barrel	- as this firearm is frequently customized barrel lengths will vary. - screw on recoil compensators are not included in the barrel length.
Calibre	- "CAL. 355", "CALIBER 0.355", "CAL. 400", "CALIBER 0.400", "CAL. 450", or "CALIBER 0.450" may be marked on the chamber of the barrel. - ".355" is a generic calibre marking for 9MM LUGER, 9X21, 9X25, and 38 SUPER AUTO. - ".400" is a generic calibre marking for 40 S&W, 40 SUPER, and 10MM AUTO. - ".450" is a generic calibre marking for 45 AUTO. - "CLASSIC CAL. 355" and "HYBRICOMP CAL.355" was observed marked on barrels from Schuemann Barrels.
Other Markings	- grip frames may be marked either "TRI" (Tripp Research Incorporated) or have a "CMC" (Chip McCormick Corp) medallion.
Remarks	- as many of these firearms were sold as receiver/frames only, complete guns will be found with a wide variety of slide markings. The slide markings do not change the model designation.

Notes

Make

- "TROY" and the Troy Defense logo of a Trojan helmet within a notched circle are marked both sides of the firearm's magazine well.

Model

- "TROY INTERNATIONAL SPORTING RIFLE" is marked on the right side of the magazine well.
- this firearm is a one-of-a-kind pump-action repeating rifle manufactured by Troy Defence for sales within Canada, to conform to Canadian laws, based on their "PAR" (Pump Action Rifle).
- features include: anodized black finish; muzzle brake; full-length accessory rail; open adjustable or optical sights; ventilated handguard; black synthetic furniture; a magazine well that will not accept AR-15/M16 magazines; right-side magazine release; a "press up to release" slide-release button, in front of the trigger-guard; an enlarged trigger-guard, for use with gloves; and a side-folding buttstock that is pinned in the extended position.

Manufacturer

- "TROY" and the Troy Defense logo of a Trojan helmet within a notched circle are marked both sides of the firearm's magazine well.

Serial Number

- serial number found on the left side of the magazine well.
- serial number observed with a three letter prefix and eight numbers.

Shots

- detachable box magazine.
- the Troy International Sporting Rifle firearm design uses a polymer modified STANAG pattern cartridge magazine (Troy "Battlemag") which fits the Troy International Sporting Rifle and the AR-15/M-16 "family" of firearms; however, STANAG magazines cannot be used with the Troy International Sporting Rifle.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Canadian Law Comments

- the Troy International Sporting Rifle firearm design is derived from an amalgamation of several different firearm designs and does not trace its design lineage directly or uniquely to any "prohibited" or "restricted" firearm found in the Regulations appended to the Criminal Code PART III, Section 84.
- this firearm design uses a modified type of cartridge magazine which fits the Troy International Sporting Rifle and the entire "family" of AR-15/M-16 firearms; however, STANAG magazines cannot be used with the Troy International Sporting Rifle. Due to the cartridge magazine "cross-over" use between multiple action types the cartridge magazine is considered to be a dual purpose magazine for semi-automatic and pump action firearms. For this reason the cartridge magazines for this firearm must be reduced to not more than five (5) cartridges maximum.

Canadian Law Comments

- the Troy PAR firearm design is derived from an amalgamation of several different firearm designs and does not trace its design lineage directly or uniquely to any "prohibited" or "restricted" firearm found in the Regulations appended to the Criminal Code PART III, Section 84. The upper and lower receiver halves of this rifle are not interchangeable with those of the AR-15/M16; the pin holes are spaced further apart, and the Sporting Rifle's lower has no provision for an auto-sear or buffer tube.
- this firearm is normally Non-Restricted unless affected by the following:
- "a firearm that is designed or adapted to be fired when reduced to a length of less than 660 mm by folding, telescoping or otherwise" and therefore "Restricted" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (c) of the Criminal Code of Canada.

Canadian Law Comments

- the Troy Sporting Rifle firearm design is derived from an amalgamation of several different firearm designs and does not trace its design lineage directly or uniquely to any "prohibited" or "restricted" firearm found in the Regulations appended to the Criminal Code PART III, Section 84. The upper and lower receiver halves of this rifle are not interchangeable with those of the AR-15/M16; the pin holes are spaced further apart, and the Sporting Rifle's lower has no provision for an auto-sear or buffer tube.
- this firearm is normally Non-Restricted unless affected by the following:
- "a firearm that is designed or adapted to be fired when reduced to a length of less than 660 mm by folding, telescoping or otherwise" and therefore "Restricted" under the definition of "restricted firearm" in Part III/Firearms and Other Weapons of Section 84 (1) (c) of the Criminal Code of Canada.

Notes

Make

- "TRYON" over "PHILAD'A" is marked on the side plate, behind the cock.
- "Musket" is a term that originally applied to a smooth bore long gun, later the term was applied to the infantryman's shoulder controlled long gun. The musket had a long fore-end and may have been equipped with a bayonet and a front and rear sight.
- "Rifle-Musket" is a term applied when musket barrels were manufactured with rifling, they were sometimes referred to as a rifled musket.
- "Musketoon" is a term applied to a musket equipped with a short barrel and bayonet.

Model

- model designation is not marked on the firearm.
- manufactured circa 1839.
- five pointed star with a smaller star in the middle over "TEXAS" is marked on the lock plate.
- Republic of Texas contact Tryon of Philadelphia to manufacturer 1816 Muskets.
- 1816 Muskets were also produced by the U.S. arsenals at Harpers Ferry and Springfield and under contract by numerous manufacturer's.
- 1816 model is based on the design of the 1763 and 1777 French Service Musket.
- features include: round barrel with three barrel bands; polished bright or brown finish; colour case-hardened, flat, bevelled, lock plate; fixed iron or detachable brass flash pan without fence; walnut stock with or without a low comb.
- originally introduced with an integral iron flash pan and later as the "Type I" (1819-1822) that featured a detachable brass flash pan, an integral trigger guard bow and trigger plate; the "Type II" (1822-1831) that featured a trigger guard bow riveted to the trigger plate and an overall "browned" finish; and the "Type III" (1831-1844) that featured a ball shaped bolster attached to the trigger guard bow, smaller lock markings and a bright finish.
- most of these 1816 muskets were converted to a percussion ignition system circa 1845 that involved the removal of the pan and frizzen, the installation of a nipple, and replacement of the cock with a hammer.

Manufacturer

- "TRYON" over "PHILAD'A" is marked on the side plate, behind the cock.

144126 - 1	9x39 RUSSIAN	10	200	Prohibited CC 84(1) "prohibited firearm" para. (c)	Manufacturer Specifications and Commercial Customization

Notes

Make

- the make or logo thereof may or may not be marked on the firearm.

Model

- the model may or may not be marked on the firearm; "AS Val" stands for "Avtomat Spetsialny Val", or "Automatic Special Rod" ("Val" can also be translated as "Shaft").
- this is one of a pair of special rifles designed to fill a request by the Russian FSB (Federal Security Service) for a compact selective-fire rifle that could be effectively silenced; TsNIITOChMASH produced two versions of such a rifle, one intended specifically for use as a sniper rifle, with a fixed stock (the VSS Vintorez), and one intended for use as a silenced "assault rifle", with a folding stock (the AS Val).
- features include: a matte parkerized/phosphated or camouflage-painted finish; an integral large-diameter suppressor that extends rearward to the synthetic forearm; open adjustable sights mounted entirely on the outer suppressor body (though this rifle can also mount standard optical or night sights on a side rail); detachable box magazine; stamped and folded top-cover; an AK-style lever safety that blocks the travel of the bolt handle when applied; a separate cross-bolt button selector at the rear of the trigger-guard (right for semi-auto, left for full-auto); and a frame-style folding stock that folds to lay against the left side of the receiver.

Manufacturer

- the manufacturer or logo thereof may or may not be marked on the firearm.

Action

- gas-operated.

Serial Number

- numbered on the receiver/frame.

Shots

- detachable box magazine; this rifle uses the same magazines as the VSS Vintorez, but where the Vintorez is normally equipped with 10-round magazines, the AS Val is normally equipped with 20-round magazines.

95495 - 2	8MM PROTECTOR	7	37	Antique AFR, Section 1, para. 7	Manufacturer Specifications and Commercial Customization

Notes

Make

- Jacques Emond Turbiaux of Paris, France, invented in 1882, probably the best known and most commonly encountered palm squeezer pistol, the "Le Protector".
- Turbiaux is listed in business from 1882 to 1895.

Model

- "LE PROTECTOR SYSTEME E. TURBIAUX" or LE PROTECTOR SYSTEME TURBIAUX" is marked around the central cap on one side and ".PARIS.Bte S.G.D.G. EN FRANCE ET A L'ETRANGER" is marked on the other side.
- firearm is held in the palm of the hand with the barrel protruding between the first and second fingers, squeezing the hand depressed the external lever, this rotated the magazine, cocked the hammer, locked the magazine and then released the hammer to fire the cartridge. A slide safety blocked the entry of the magazine bolt, preventing the pistol from being fired.

Barrel

- other barrel lenghts observed.

Calibre

- the 6MM PROTECTOR and the 8MM PROTECTOR are center fire cartridges the look like Rim Fire cartridges, both are very short and resemble oversized BB Caps.

Shots

- magazine is accessed by removing the circular side plate.

- John Fox Twigg entered into a partnership with John Bass in 1788, this business was called "TWIGG & BASS".
- "TWIGG & BASS" ceased operations upon the death of John Twigg in 1790.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Model

- manufactured prior to 1791.
- model designation is not marked on the firearm.
- model designation is derived from the method by which this pistol is loaded; loading was accomplished by unscrewing the barrel.
- this is a single shot pistol with a removable barrel and an exposed hammer centrally located on the box lock type receiver/frame
- this handgun is intended to be loaded from the breech end of the barrel and as such was originally supplied with a wrench to unscrew the barrel from the receiver/frame in order that a lead ball and loose powder could be inserted into the chamber end of the barrel and then the barrel screwed back onto the receiver/frame.
- features include: steel, round barrel; box lock type receiver/frame in brass; flat sided stock with curved grip; trigger guard; may have a sliding safety bar on the top tang; may have a folding bayonet; unfinished metal surface with engraving.

Manufacturer

- "TWIGG" was observed marked on the right side lock plate of a known example.
- "TWIGG" is the trademark name of John Fox Twigg.
- John Fox Twigg was a gunmaker located in London, England from 1732 to 1790.
- "TWIGG LONDON", and "TWIGG STRAND LONDON" are other markings observed on the receiver/frame, lock plate and/or the top of the barrel.
- John Fox Twigg's gun barrels are usually marked with his gunmaker's trademark symbol of a "Crown" over the capital letters "IT".
- John Fox Twigg was located at the following addresses in London, England: Angel Court, Charing Cross from 1755 to 1760, 132 Strand from 1760 to 1776, and Picadilly from 1776 to 1790.
- John Fox Twigg was also a contractor to the East India Company from 1772 to 1789.
- John Fox Twigg entered into a partnership with John Bass in 1788, this business was called "TWIGG & BASS".
- "Twigg & Bass" ceased operations upon the death of John Twigg in 1790.

Action

- the barrel unscrews in front of the chamber, so it can be loaded with a ball that fits the barrel more tightly than is possible with a muzzle loader.
- the turnoff barrel may be rifled.

Notes

Make

- "A. UBERTI & C. GARDONE V.T. ITALY" or "A. UBERTI - MADE IN ITALY" or "A. UBERTI - ITALY" may be marked on the barrel.

Model

- "1873" and/or "CATTLEMAN" or "SINGLE ACTION ARMY" may be marked on the barrel.
- this model is a reproduction of the Colt 1873 Single Action Army revolver.
- Uberti has used different names for the same firearm (minor cosmetic differences) over time and this has lead to some confusion.
- features include: colour case-hardened, blued, or plated receiver/frame; plain or checkered grips; convertible cylinders available in 45 COLT/45 AUTO and in 22 LR/22 MAG; single action trigger; loading gate and ejector rod located on the right side of the firearm; the backstrap & trigger guard may be made of steel or brass; several grip designs available.
- the 1873 Cattleman was also offered in a percussion version, the external appearance remained the same (except for the percussion cylinder).
- also available in a "New Model" version that utilizes a spring loaded, side mounted cylinder axis pin release screw or in an "Old Model" version that utilizes the front mounted, non spring loaded cylinder axis pin release screw.
- in 2005, the Gunfighter, the Cody and the Frisco versions were introduced. The "Gunfighter" features a satin blued finish with checkered hard black plastic grips. The "Cody" features a stainless steel finish with ivory style grips and the "Frisco" features a blued barrel, cylinder, trigger guard and back strap with a case hardened receiver/frame finish and pearl style grip.
- in 2006 the Desperado and the Chisholm versions were introduced. The "Desperado" features a stainless steel finish with hard black plastic grips and the "Chisholm" features a blued satin finish with checkered wood grips.
- overall length with a 140mm (5.5") barrel is 279mm (11"), average weight is 1.04kg (2.3lbs).

Manufacturer

- "A. UBERTI & C. GARDONE V.T. ITALY" or "A. UBERTI - MADE IN ITALY" or "A. UBERTI - ITALY" may be marked on the barrel.

Serial Number

- serial number is marked on the underside of the receiver/frame in front of the trigger guard and may be repeated on the barrel.
- observed serial number consisted of six numbers without a letter prefix or suffix.
- observed serial number consisted of a letter prefix and four numbers.
- observed serial number consisted of a letter prefix and five numbers.
- observed serial number consisted of two letter prefix and four numbers.

Calibre

- calibre designation is usually marked on the top or left side of the barrel. Example ".357 MAG." "S.A. CAL. 45".
- rifling characteristics: 6 grooves right hand twist.

Notes

Make

- "Uberti" or "U" inside of an octagon may be marked on the firearm.

Model

- this is a modern reproduction of one of the earliest successful attempts to produce a reliable handgun that could use self-contained metallic cartridges;
- the revolver being reproduced started out as an Colt 1860 Army percussion handgun, but was fitted with an adapter kit invented by Charles Richards, a Colt employee.
- this replaced the barrel, cylinder, and loading ram with a new barrel, new cylinder, and ejector-rod, and made reloading much faster and easier
- features include: one piece walnut grips; satin finish; steel, colour case-hardened receiver/frame; blued, tapered round barrel; brass blade front sight; V notch/hammer nose rear sight; brass trigger guard.
- overall length for a 140mm (5.5") barrel is 330mm (13"), average weight is 1.18kg (2.6lbs).

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Manufacturer	- the Uberti logo may appear on the firearm as a "U" inside a rifled, octagonal barrel.
Serial Number	- serial number is marked on the receiver/frame. - serial number observed consisted of a letter "X" prefix and five numbers.
Other Markings	- other marks typically include various Italian Proof House acceptance marks and their catalogue number as well as the reproduction of the patent dates and the manufacturer's name and address as found on the original firearm.

Notes

Make

- the Uberti trademark featuring a "U" inside the cross-section of a barrel is usually marked on the underside of the barrel, may be obscured by the loading lever.

Model

- features include: brass trigger guard and frontstrap; case-hardened receiver/frame and loading lever; walnut grips; blued barrel and engraved cylinder; post front sight; includes conversion ring and extra bored-through cylinder used to convert from percussion to metallic cartridge.
- this model is a reproduction of the original Colt 1860 Army model that used the Thuer conversion system designed by F. Alexander Thuer (patented Sept 15, 1868) which allowed the firearm to be converted from percussion to using metallic cartridges.
- the Thuer conversion system was also used on the 1849 Pocket; the 1851 Navy; the 1861 Navy and the 1862 Police models.
- the conversion system operates in the following manner: the conversion ring has a rebounding firing pin, ejection mechanism, a stud for turning the ring to the fire or eject positions, and two guide studs which engage either side of the frame/receiver when the ring is turned.
- the right side of the barrel is machined to allow front-loading of the tapered metallic cartridges which are held in place by friction.
- ratchet teeth are machined on the collar-shaped extension from the breech of the cylinder and the Thuer ring fits over this extension and occupies the area that is normally taken up by the percussion nipples on the breech end of the cylinder.
- a circular metal disk is located on the face of the hammer as a precaution against accidental striking of the hammer against the ring when it is not in its correct position.
- the end of the rammer has a threaded aperture for a reloading plug.

Manufacturer

- the Uberti trademark featuring a "U" within a cross-section of a barrel will usually be marked on the bottom of the barrel underneath the loading lever.

Firearms Reference Table, National Specialized Services, Royal Canadian Mounted Police. All rights reserved, RCMP, 1998-2026.

Serial Number - marked on the underside of the receiver/frame aheadt of the trigger guard.

Calibre
- this cartridge was designed for the Colt Thuer conversion and features a reverse-tapered metallic rimless cartridge which accepts conical-shaped bullets.
- the original conversions were developed in the following calibers: .31, .36 and .44.
- the firearm is supplied with the conversion unit and a cylinder that fires 44 PERCUSSION.
